THE WEED OF THE WEEK - PERENNIAL SOW THISTLE - Excessive moisture this year has been a contributing factor responsible for a marked increase in Perennial Sow Thistle. This weed spreads rapidly in heavy damp soils.

Three species of Sow Thistle are common in Ontario. The Perennial is the worst and it has two comparatively harmless cousins, the Common Annual and the Splay Annual, says John D. MacLeod, Ont. Dept. of Agriculture Toronto.

The Perennial Sow Thistle is a tall, coarse growing, deep rooted weed with large and vigorous running rootstocks. Once it establishes itself in a field these underground rootstocks spread in every direction and send up new plants from buds which appear every few inches along the stock and soon choke out cultivated crops.

The perennial thistle is taller and more slender than the annual. It has numerous underground running rootstocks, while the annuals have only tap roots. The leaves of the Perennial are deeply cut with segments pointing backwards and flowers are a deep yellow in colour and an inch and a half across.

Perennial Sow Thistle can be controlled. The first essential is to prevent seeding, as a few patches if allowed to mature may seed down a whole neighborhood. Each seed of Sow Thistle bears a conspicuous tuft of white milky hair which when dry acts as a parachute and makes it possible for the seed to be spread far and wide by the wind.

Jas. M. Nicholson, Clerk. AITKEN-ECCLES A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, July 31, at the home of Mr and Mrs Arthur Eccles, when their only daughter, Florence Estella, became the bride of Milton A. Aitken, youngest son of Mr Robert and the late Mrs Aitken, of Holstein.

The bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white organza net with an elbow-length veil which was caught up with a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Premier rose-buds.

Little Miss Jean Eccles, niece of the groom was her flower-girl and looked very sweet in a pale blue frock and carried a basket of roses and sweet-peas.

After the ceremony, the guests entered the dining-room, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served them by Miss Audrey McWilliam, cousin of the bride and Miss Evelyn Love, a girl-friend of the bride.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cabinet of silver and to the flower-girl, a gold bracelet. In the evening a reception was tendered them, when over two hundred friends and neighbors were present and enjoyed the evening in dancing and social chat.

For travelling, the bride chose a navy dress with white trimming, and navy accessories, and a blue coat of a lighter shade. After a honeymoon spent in a trip to the Thousand Islands, the happy young couple will reside on the groom's farm, 2nd Con, Egremont.

soils. Start to plow infested fields immediately after the crop has been removed. This newly ploughed, land should not be touched for a week or more depending on weather conditions. It will be roughly set up with large clods, lumps and holes. Surface soil and subsoil will be separated. Moisture will be cut off and rootstocks will be dried out and killed; hot dry weather will insure a more satisfactory job.

Many Municipal Councils throughout the Province where Perennial Sow Thistle is confined to patches have developed a policy of supplying ratepayers with a quantity of chemical weed killer for its eradication. This plan has much to commend it and should receive the consideration of every Municipal Council. The individual who has no Perennial Sow Thistle in his property should be as interested in its eradication as the one who has difficulty in controlling it. Co-operation is essential in controlling this menace to Ontario Agriculture, Mr MacLeod states.

More detailed information regarding its control may be obtained from your Agricultural Representative or Weed Inspector or by writing direct to the Crops, Seeds & Weeds Branch, Parliament Bldgs., Toronto.
