

Trend To Larger Windows Is Noted

Large window areas in homes are now the rule rather than the exception, U.S. Federal Housing Administration officials have noted.

The modern trend is to larger and more window openings. Like so many other functional parts of a modern house, windows today have improved considerably in design and construction.

There was a time when architects and builders hesitated to use large window areas because of the great heat losses they caused. Today the trend is just the opposite, because double glass, weather-stripping, and careful construction where the window frame and the wall join have largely eliminated windows as sources of excessive heat losses.

Special Rice Pudding

On cook's night out, Billie Burke prepares her favorite dessert, rice pudding, for her family. The actress acquired this recipe from her mother and it is on the weekly menu at the Burke home.

2 eggs cooked rice
2 cups milk 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup raisins 1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. cin- 1 tablespoon namon powdered
1 1/4 cup sugar

Separate the whites and yolks of the eggs, add to the yolks two tablespoons of the milk and place the rest of the milk on the fire in double boiler. Wash raisins, put them in the milk and cook until soft (15 min.). Add rice, cook five minutes longer, then stir in the yolks of the eggs and the salt, sugar and spice. Stir well cook for two or three minutes, remove from fire and pour pudding into serving dish. Beat the whites of eggs light, add sugar, spread the meringue on top of the pudding and brown delicately in the oven. Serve cold.

Fashion Flashes

Tweeds used for suits include a number of smooth-face textures which drape and tailor well. Checks and herringbone are the two favorite patterns. Of these, shepherd checks in black and white with red crossbars look especially right in these straight simple jacket suits.

Suit jackets run from less than wrist-length to really long tunic types, these shown with fitted top-coats in three-piece schemes. Daguerreotype revers, small and high are much used in combination with shoulder yokes and novelty pockets. Set-in belts are popular, too. Skirts stick to a generally narrow outline in which box or deep side pleats stitched through the hips achieve the combination of slowness and freedom.

There are many amusing details in the new collections, such as buttons copied from old seals, buttons shaped like thimbles, belts fastened with "needle and thread." Other details include two eyes at the neckline of a black dinner frock with critical tear-drops falling below the waist-line.

Off-face hats and berets inspired by Holbein portraits arouse interest. Applauded ones include a youthful, head-fitting, long backed bonnet in black Persian lamb and felt. A black velvet bonnet edged with green and orange quills crossing at front is another.

Tucked and pleated crowns are features of new sports hats. Otherwise they are high, brimmed and forward-tilting with simple quill trimming. Some homburgs and bretons are shown.

Since so much attention is being given coats, suits, hats and other articles of apparel that borrow from the man's wardrobe, it follows that accessories must conform. For instance, shirts are tremendously important in blouses, and it is suggested to wear a mannish scarf or tie, with a huge single-jewel pin like a topaz or aquamarine cabochon; the tie itself can be of a gray pattern fabric in the manner of men's ties.

Recommended for wear under brown coats are smoky tones of brown with gray overtones, taupe, pale blue, soft blues and green blues. Greens in olive tones are good selections, and golden yellow in a dull mustard tone is an interesting novelty.

CHAPTER TWO

That afternoon the business of the "Carvel High Olympian," got under way. None of its staff, consisting of Andy, Polly and Bezy Atwood, were not on very good speaking terms. Breezy was still sore at Andy for not lending him his botany book and Andy was sore at Breezy because the latter wanted to put Cynthia Porter's picture on the cover of the "Olympian." Polly was irritated at them both for quarreling on her time. "Now who in the world," Andy demanded, "would call Cynthia the most beautiful girl in the world?" Privately, he coddled the lovely vision of Daphne Fowler. "Andy please," Breezy cried wildly, "I practically promised Cynthia she'd be on the cover." He looked at them both tensely. "All in favor of Cynthia's picture, say 'aye!'"

There were two "no's" from the rest of the committee. To settle the matter, Polly made a suggestion that they use a cover with the most interesting achievement of the month by a student. Much as he hated to agree with her, Andy seconded the motion.

THE MEETING WAS adjourned when all of a sudden Bezy seized Andy's scrapbook, disguised as a botany tome. "Thanks Andy," he gloated, "I'll give this back Monday."

In cold fury Andy said, "Put that book down. It's my property." But already Bezy had flipped open the cover and now he howled with fiendish glee. "Polly, will you look at this? Ha, ha! Ho, ho! The whole thing's just filled with pictures of Daphne Fowler." He began to chant, "Andy's got a crush on Daphne Fowler. Andy's got a crush on Daphne Fowler. And he's never even seen her."

Polly was just looking her scorn and Andy spoke up desperately. "I have too seen her," inspiration came to him. "I met her in Detroit nearly two years ago and at first sight she liked me far more than she ought." Loftily, insultingly, Polly retorted, "Why Daphne Fowler goes around with grown men. She wouldn't look twice at a small-town schoolboy." "Yeah?" Andy began to invent rapidly. "Well, she's crazy about me, she wants me to come and have the first dance with her when she makes her debut." Polly sniffed. "I been begging my father to let me go to New York." He was warming up. "I begged and pleaded on my bended knees but he says I got to keep on with school."

A CROSS TO BEAR Openly skeptical Polly suggested, "You could always run away from home."

Andy drew himself up and went to the door, not, however, without snatching his precious book from Bezy first. "Maybe you'd want to break your mother's heart that way but I been brought up better. Furthermore I don't even know if I could get away from New York without having to marry her." The silence was impressive. "I'd sure be terrific if I could only get to New York." He shrugged with martyrdom. "But I guess we all got our crosses to bear in this unhappy world." (To be continued)

Will Dolls Have Effect On Styles?

Permission to Copy Costumes of British Princesses' French Dolls Granted Canadian Designers

Indications are that forthcoming fashions of Canadian women will be considerably influenced by two little French dolls now touring the Dominion. They are "Marianne" and "Francoise" and permission to copy their clothes has been granted Canadian designers.

As it happens the dolls' hats and gowns were created in 1938. But the thing to remember is that one hat doesn't make a fashion and only one of everything in the extensive wardrobes of Marianne and Francoise was made.

50 OR 60 HATS The dolls, presented by the children of France to Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, are on tour of the Dominion under the auspices of the Canadian national committee on refugees.

A forecast of what Canadian women will wear this winter and next spring may be found in the clothes assembled for Marianne and Francoise by Parisian designers who held undisputed sway over fashion for centuries.

PLENTY OF CREATIVE FANCY In the wardrobes are to be found full and straight skirts, box and fitted coats, puffed and simple sleeves, large hats, small hats, crowlax hats and tricorns. There are 50 or 60 hats. Yet each in a distinct model, any one of which might be worn as well

HERE'S TO HALLOWE'EN

Hallowe'en is coming and on that night of nights let us have a lot of fun. Right away I can hear some dissenting voices, for a day or so ago whilst admiring some Hallowe'en decorations in a store window, I overheard the remarks "we should have none of these frolics this year"—and right here I am going to answer back with the reply: "We certainly should have all the gaiety possible."

This is children's and youth's night, and who of the older folks does not like to be in all the proceedings? Then we will have others listening in, we have our little English visitors anticipating our celebration of the witches' night. Some years ago it was my good pleasure to spend a Hallowe'en in old England. I was staying at Shrewsbury at "The Raven"—the village inn. The setting seemed perfect, England with her history and tradition, her village life, a dark dismal day it was, with flickering candles—one could imagine fairies and witches popping from every corner, with a few howling cats, bats and goblins too. So in these days of sadness and apprehension let's help to keep the youthful spirit alive, that they may build a character to face the future full of optimism and cheer possessed by all true British subjects.

Whether a family supper, a buffet luncheon or a lunch for the kiddies, these recipes should solve the problem.

Scalloped Salmon

- 1 pound salmon
- 2 cups medium white sauce
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1/4 cup diced bacon
- 1/4 tsp. chopped parsley
- 1 tsp. chopped onion

Remove the skin from the salmon, retain the liquid and crush and add the bones; flake the salmon coarsely and add with liquid and crushed bones to white sauce. Season to taste with salt, pepper, scraped onion and parsley. Place a layer of breadcrumbs in a greased baking dish and add half fish mixture; sprinkle with bacon and add second layer of crumbs. — add remaining solution, cover with rest of crumbs and bacon. Bake in moderate oven until crumbs are browned.

Ginger Shortbread

- 1 1/3 cups pastry flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 8 tablespoons butter
- 2-3 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg yolk

Measure all dry ingredients and sift. Cream butter and blend in gradually the brown sugar. Beat and add egg yolk. Gradually work in flour mixture to make a soft dough, which may be handled in the floured-portion of the hands. Shape as balls the size of walnuts. Place one inch apart on a greased pan. Flatten with the floured tines of a fork. Bake 7 minutes in a hot oven.

Chocolate Fudge

- 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
- 1 cup rich milk
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 2-3 cup brown sugar
- Pinch salt
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup pecans

Cream Nut Fudge 2 cups brown sugar 1 cup thick sour cream pinch salt 1 teasp. pure vanilla 1/2 cup walnuts. Stir sugar, sour cream and salt over low heat until sugar dissolves. Cover; bring to boil and cook for 3 minutes. Uncover and stir only to prevent burning. When a few drops will form a soft ball in cold water, cool partially, add vanilla, beat until mixture begins to thicken. Add nuts and beat until thick and creamy. Turn quickly with greased pan. Cut in squares.

Report Cold Germ Dives On Victims

The Air Hygiene Foundation reported last week from Pittsburgh that common cold germs, propelled by a sneeze, hunt new victims at a speed of better than 100 miles an hour. "An unstuffed sneeze sprays the air with thousands of droplets, some of which travel 12 feet and at a rate as high as 150 feet per second," said a foundation bulletin. It warned the so-called "common cold" was the greatest health problem in industry.

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: Pipe down, Brown—this is a school, not a hospital!

TEACHER: Thanks indeed for telling me about Postum, Mr. Brown. I've been drinking it regularly and the things I worried about a month ago seem silly now!

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES: School's out for me!—Postum and caffeine-nerves just don't get along!

Many people can safely drink tea and coffee. Many others—and all children—should never drink them. If you are one of these, try Postum's 30-day test. Dr. Erik Holmberg advances a theory that just as large countries are taking over smaller ones in Europe, so large star systems far out in space are "capturing" smaller ones and forming double and multiple nebulae. Astronomers are trying to determine whether the universe is stationary or, as some contend, is expanding at an explosive rate which eventually would bring its destruction. Dr. Holmberg reported that several of the results of his investigation "furnish strong support for the assumption of a stationary nebular universe."
