

Will Industry Go To Rural Centres?

As A Result of the War Manufacturers May Seek to Locate in Less Vulnerable Areas

Perhaps one aftermath of the war will be a great de-centralization process, says the Niagara Falls Review. A great city, particularly of the size of London, or any other big capital, tends to draw to it more and more people, more industries and, when war comes, as it has come to London, such a place becomes an easy target for enemy bombs. There is the matter of health too, which may impel industries to be removed from large cities so that families may live in purer air, less crowded quarters.

TENDENCY IN CANADA NOW

London has had two great cleanings in her long history—one after the great plague and one after the great fire, and it is inevitable there will be changes after this war. Probably presently crowded tenement buildings which have been destroyed will be replaced by structures of greater beauty, with more of the amenities of life, more room for families to live in decency. More people will live outside London and it may be a great part of the city will be like the mile square city itself, largely deserted after nightfall.

There has been such a tendency already in Canada and the United States where great industries have deliberately been established outside the large cities, in smaller communities and, in some cases, actually right out in the country. That trend may be accelerated as a result of this war and the wars of recent years which have been particularly destructive of great cities.

Dies at Vancouver

Lieut.-Gen. Sir Percy Lake, 86, grand president of the Canadian Legion, died in a Victoria hospital. He was quartermaster-general in Canada from 1892-1898, and chief of the Canadian general staff from 1905-1908, and inspector-general from 1908-1910. In the last war he acted as commander-in-chief of the Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force.

A Sagging Chair Can Be Re-webbed

If the Seat Sags You Can Fix It Yourself

When the seat of an upholstered chair sags and hollows, probably the criss-cross webbing which supports the springs has worn out. Turn the chair upside down and remove the black lining covering the webbing to see if this is the case. If so, you can quite easily do this renovation at home.

Remove old webbing first. Starting at the back of the chair, put the end of the new webbing 1 in. over the edge of the frame and fasten down with two large-headed tacks. Turn this bit of the webbing over and secure the fold down with three tacks. Pull the webbing across to the front of the chair, wrap it round a small block of wood and grip this with a pair of pliers or a proper upholsterer's webbing strainer. Cut off webbing 1 in. beyond tacks, turn surplus over and secure. Put three or more strips of webbing across the chair frame each way and weave the second set in and out of the first.

Now stitch the bottoms of the springs to the new webbing. Sew them on webbing intersections and so that no two springs touch. Use a curved upholstery needle threaded with thin string and sew each spring down with bar stitches, placed at even intervals across its bottom ring.

Replace the original canvas over the webbing or if it is too worn, cut a new one.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON IX
AN EXACTING DISCIPLESHIP.—
Luke 9.

PRINTED TEXT, Luke 9: 40-62.
GOLDEN TEXT.—No man, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God, Luke 9: 62.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING
Time.—The commission of the twelve apostles occurred in the autumn of A.D. 28, the immediate subsequent events in the winter of A.D. 28, 29, the confession of Peter and Christ's transfiguration in the autumn of A.D. 29; Christ's journey through Samaria took place in November and December A.D. 29.

Place.—The Twelve were commissioned in Galilee; the events recorded in 9: 10a took place in Capernaum; the feeding of the five thousand is to be located in Bethsaida, at the northeast end of the Sea of Galilee; the confession of Peter and the subsequent teaching are to be located in Caesarea Philippi; the transfiguration probably occurred on Mount Hermon; the events recorded in verses 52 to 56 occurred in Samaria; the concluding teachings reported in the remainder of the chapter were uttered on the shores of the Sea of Galilee.

In this lesson we may gain a profound conception of what might be called the centrality or the absolute supremacy of the Lord Jesus Christ: Christ here reveals himself as supreme over his disciples; he shows himself the central figure upon every occasion when a great need arises, because of his ability to meet that need; he is the one person men ought to believe as the Son of God; he is the one who is supremely worthy of our absolute devotion.

The Gospel Ideal

The ideal of the gospel received through its perfect incarnation in Jesus Christ is not that we should be ministered unto, but that we should minister, bear one another's burdens, love one another, prefer one another, pray for one another, edify one another in the Lord. Luke 9: 49. And John answered and said, Master, we saw one casting out demons in thy name; and we forbade him, because he followed not with us. 50. But Jesus said unto him, Forbid him not: for he that is not against us is for us. Eyes outside the circle of the permanent disciples of Jesus there were men in whom his word and his works had called forth a miraculous power. These sparks, which fell beyond the circle, had made flames burst forth here and there away from the central fire.

Purpose of Christ's Coming

51. And it came to pass, when the days were well-nigh come that he should be received up, he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem, and sent messengers before his face:

52. And they went, and entered into a village of the Samaritans, to make ready for him.

53. And they did not receive him, because his face was as though he were going to Jerusalem.

54. And when his disciples James and John saw this, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we bid fire to come down from heaven, and consume them?

55. But he turned, and rebuked them. 56. And they went to another village. The concluding twelve verses of this chapter of Luke's Gospel give in some detail that which is found more briefly in Matt. 8: 18-22, and Mark 10: 1.

This begins what is commonly called the Peraean ministry of our Lord, which commences with Christ's final departure from Galilee, here noticed, and ends with his final arrival in Jerusalem. John and James here forgot of what spirit they were, the spirit of both the Old and the New Testaments, and gave way to fleshly desire for revenge. While we must disapprove of the spirit here of the two disciples, as the Lord certainly did, yet we must recognize that their request only sprang from their burning zeal. It must have surprised James and John when Jesus rebuked them. It is true that the village rejected Jesus; but we must ask, Had any special effort been made to win them to Jesus? Had the gospel been preached to them? We must answer no.

Worthlessness of Excuses

57. And as they went on the way, a certain man said unto him, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest. 58. And Jesus said unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head. 59. And he said unto another, Follow me. But he said, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father. 60. But he said unto him, Leave the dead to bury their own dead; but go thou and publish abroad the kingdom of God. 61. And another also said, I will follow thee, Lord; but first suffer me to bid farewell to them that are at my house. 62. But Jesus said unto him, No man, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God. This remarkable passage is not to be found in any of the other Gospels, and is a remarkably rich paragraph for careful study if space allowed. Three types of men are seen in the presence of the enterprise of Jesus, attracted to him, wanting to be loyal to him, desiring to be enrolled under him, wanting to serve him. The first was a man attracted by Christ. The second was a man whom Christ called to certain and definite relationship with himself. The third was a man wanting to serve Christ, but postponing his service. Christ's call is superior to the highest and most beautiful of earth's obligations. That is the cross. Christ had flashed upon him the light of a tremendous enterprise, the enterprise of preaching the kingdom of God; and that demanded the abandonment of the earthly tie when it conflicted with the call of the Lord.

U.S.-Canadian Defence Board at Vancouver

Mayor Fiorella L. La Guardia, of New York, and Col. O. M. Biggar, U.S. United States and Canadian chairman, respectively, of the permanent board of defence, are shown as they mounted the city hall steps at Vancouver, where the joint board held a conference during its tour of the U.S.-Canada Pacific coast. On hand to greet them was Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, joint secretary of the board for Canada, shown with back to camera.

Stones From Sky

Stones are more mysterious than people think. Mr. William Barber, of Iken Cliff, Suffolk, England, has grown stones by watering them every day. They increase in size at the rate of three-sixteenths of an inch every year. The model of a stone bull in Southern India, anointed with oil regularly by worshipful natives, grows constantly in size. Because of this, it is credited with having life. In the West Indies, it sometimes rains stones. Quartz pebbles fall down from the skies without warning, then stop suddenly. Nobody has ever explained this phenomenon, for there isn't any quartz in the vicinity.

RADIO REPORTER

"WHAT'S NEW?" You learn about the latest foibles and gadgets in the feminine world a program of women's features by Bernice Burns, the personality girl, when you dial in "What's New" — which is heard over CKOC each Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning at 9.45.

Miss Burns watches the trends in the women's world and is always able to report — "What's New." All these combine to make a feature specially designed for the feminine ear — a feature that every lass from seven to seventy will enjoy. Make 9.45 on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays resting time — and tune in CKOC to hear Bernice Burns and What's New!

THEY LIKE IT OVERSEAS

When the Canadian troops in England were questioned as to what Canadian radio program they would like to hear in England, one of the first programs they mentioned was the "Happy Gang." This is proof of the appeal of this completely happy and generally screwball session with Bert Pearl, Kathleen Stokes and the rest of the happy crew. We think it's a good sign that Canadians still get a laugh out of sheer nonsense and as long as Canada's soldiers can laugh, this Dominion need have no fear. It will take more than Hitler to make Canada's warriors lose their sense of humour. The "Happy Gang" is heard over the CBC chain each week-day afternoon at one (daylight).

AROUND THE DIAL

We like the story about the would-be musician who appeared at an audition — played a piano number — and then blandly informed the program director it was absolutely original. "Shake Mister," said the radio man. "I never thought I'd see the day I'd be face to face with Beethoven!"

Last Saturday night the old master was back with the NBC Symphony for the weekly program at 10.35 — for as the big second hand on the clock neared the deadline Arturo Toscanini, world-famous conductor, took the podium. Toscanini's presence means something to symphony musicians — for it was obvious Saturday night that the members of the orchestra were just a little more keen and getting just a trifle more out of their efforts.

If you like the best in music, you should dial in this splendid program — heard in this part of Ontario from 1120 on the radio dial.

For the Kiddies — Santa Claus is on the air each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night at five o'clock (daylight) from CFRB and CKOC.

Record Corner: The Great Crosby has recorded this theme song, "When the Blue of the Night, etc." and "Can't Get Indiana Off My Mind." Both are okay. We liked Leo Reisman's waxing of "Ferryboat Serenade."

T. B. Death Rate in Ontario Cut

Down 20 Per Cent Since 1935 — New Provincial Control Policy Results Shown in First Survey Report

The tuberculosis death rate in Ontario has dropped 20 per cent since 1935, a degree greater than in any other province, according to the first survey issued by the Department of Health since the new tuberculosis control policy, founded on 1938 amendments to the Sanatoria for Consumptives Act, came into effect in July of that year. Premier Heppner recently indicated the results of the new policy had almost exceeded expectations. As Treasurer of the Province, he had given strong backing to Health Minister Harold J. Kirby, Deputy Minister Dr. B. T. McGhie and department heads in the development of the program.

STILL SECOND DEATH CAUSE. Dr. G. C. Brink, director of the division of tuberculosis prevention, only recently in the moderate tone of the medical man, advised "the trend in Ontario certainly gives reason for present encouragement and hope for the future." He added: "However, it should be observed that tuberculosis is still the second cause of death in Ontario in the age group 15-39 years, being exceeded only by accidents."

The new policy was drafted following a survey of the tuberculosis situation by the division of tuberculosis prevention which was established in 1935.

SANATORIUM TREATMENT HELPFUL

It found that not more than 50 per cent of those dying of T. B. had had the benefit of sanatorium treatment. Only 50 per cent of those for whom sanatorium treatment was advised had entered sanatorium within one year of discovery. It was found that in some sections of the Province, the T. B. incidence and death rate were double that of the average for the Province—for example, the Eastern Counties. In certain of these sections, the degree of hospitalization was "deplorably inadequate." There was a lack of diagnostic facilities in certain sections, as well as a lack of treatment facilities and persons who had received maximum benefit from sanatorium treatment were discharged with no assurance that the necessary post-sanatorium care would be forthcoming.

The marketed value of canned fish produced in Canada in 1939 was $15,449,000.

WHERE water is easy to get, we are apt to forget the importance of it in the lives of animals and plants. To produce a bushel of ear corn requires about 13 tons of water, and a ton of alfalfa requires something like 86 tons of water.
