

Helpfulness of Christianity.

Piety is expansion. It does not cramp and fetter the nature. It enlarges and liberalizes it; shoots it out in all manner of new activities and widens it with a thousand generous impulses. A small, mean man cannot represent Christianity any more than a thorn tree can represent a forest. The Church is not a treadmill, as some seem to regard it, where ad featured men and women toil and tramp continually between set limits, longing to break loose and dash out, but are unable. The religion of Christ teaches a man that it is better to fly than to crawl, that virtue is sweeter than vice; that restraint is noble than license; and that man, we care not how poor, weak and erring he may be, may, by the grace of God, yet recover himself and go to the grave with a hope in him that shall cause the portals of it to glow like the illuminated gateway of a palace when the king returns from battle, preceded by news of a glorious victory.—Golden Rule.

Sabbath Schools and Temperance.

Here is a paragraph which is strictly to the point, and if the advice therein contained were fully acted upon, we have no doubt that the best results would follow:—To effectually destroy the tree you must kill the roots. To commence at the top and work down to the roots is a very slow process. So in the work of temperance while we are saving one inebriate scores of others fall into line and take their places. The source from whence recruits come must be cut off. Children must be taught the necessity of sobriety, and what place more favorable than the Sabbath school. The young should learn that God's Word condemns drinking, that drunkenness is a terrible sin against God, that the moderate drinker is moderately drunk, and more responsible, if possible, than when merely drunk. Taking the first glass is the key which unlocks the gate which leads to death and destruction. Every teacher in the Sabbath school should never close the lesson without warning the children of the danger of intemperance.—Weeks Doings.

FROZEN MINES.—The remarkable frozen mines of Colorado are described by Mr. H. Weiser, of Georgetown in that territory, in a communication to Silliman's Journal. One of them is the Stevens mine, at a height of twelve thousand five hundred feet above the level of the sea, in Clear Creek county. At a depth of from sixty to two hundred feet, the lode or vein of silver ore, as well as the surrounding rock, was found to be frozen solid. There are no indications of a thaw summer or winter; the whole frozen territory is surrounded by hard, massive rock, and the lode itself is as hard and solid as the rock. The miners being unable to excavate the frozen material by pick or drill, to get out the ore, found the only way was to kindle a large wood-fire at night against the back end of the tunnel, and thus thaw the frozen material, and in the morning take out the disintegrated ore. This has been the mode of mining for more than two years. The tunnel is over two hundred feet deep, and there is no indication of the frost; it seems to be rather increasing. The writer cannot account for the occurrence of this frozen mass so far underground, except on the hypothesis that the frost penetrated to that depth during that glacial epoch, and has remained there ever since. It could not have found its way thither from the outside while the region was subject to any such climate as now prevails there.

FINISHING ACT.—We regret having to chronicle one of the most diabolical attempts to destroy both life and property, that has ever occurred in this vicinity. On Wednesday morning, when the masons, working on Mr. Jason Gould's building (Fort Hemlock), near Smith's Falls, went to their work, Mr. John McCann discovered the end of a piece of fuse protruding from the side, and upon drawing it out found it to be about twenty inches in length. R. Locke, Esq., the contractor, immediately ordered a portion of the wall to be pulled down, when about thirty inches from the top was found buried in the centre of the wall a tin canister, containing 14 lbs of diamond edge blasting powder. From the canister the fuse was laid, and the end doubled into the wall ready for future use. The fuse is reported to be of superior quality, and could not have been procured in this place. Of course the only conclusion that the public can arrive at is, that the powder was placed there for the purpose of blowing up the building, and probably its contents, whenever a convenient opportunity presented itself.—Brockville Record.

THE SAD CASE OF POISONING.—On Sunday morning the village of Coldsprings was startled by the news of a man having poisoned himself with Paris Green. The victim was one Wm. Lockhart, a blacksmith, aged about 60 years, and was of intemperate habits. About 4 o'clock on the morning in question, he was found at the back of Mr. McBride's blacksmith shop, laying on some boards, vomiting, and in answer to some questions said he had taken some Paris green with the intention of putting an end to himself; he had no friends in the country and did not want to be a burden to others. Dr. Burnett was at once summoned, who did all that lay in his power to relieve him, but the poison had taken such a firm hold on him that he soon died. Coroner Ewing being notified of the case, at once proceeded to hold an inquest, when the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts.—Cobourg Star.

Be loyal to the nature you bear; consecrate your lives to every good and noble work, faithfully labour for the elevation and perfection of our common humanity, and the angel will sweetly smile upon you, and you will be happy, both in this life and that which is beyond the grave. If you will be happy, you must do all in your power to bless others. By making others happy, you fill your own lives with sunshine and happiness.

THE LATE SUICIDE.—The romance in the life of Rev. Mr. Morien, who shot himself in London, on Saturday is stated as follows:—Fifteen years ago he was preaching near Kingston and became engaged to a young lady who was fascinated by his discourse. He took brain fever and was prostrated several months, and it being feared that his mind had become permanently affected, the young lady's father broke off the match. This so preyed upon her that in six months afterwards she died of grief, and he has since lived a life of melancholy in consequence, ending with the tragedy of last week.

A lady said to a neighbor, whose husband was a book-keeper: "Your husband's occupation is a very sedentary one. He must suffer for want of exercise." "Oh! I don't know about that. He's always talking about running up the columns!" was the reply.

Young Man (to old gentleman bitten by the vicious Spitz): "Aw, my dear Saw, don't feel the least uneasy—the dog is not mad—I assure he is not mad." Old Man: "Mad! mad!! what has the dog got to be mad about? I'm the one to be mad, and I'm mad."

Chicago merchant, who evidently knows more about grain and pork than foreign affairs, was asked in Troy, N.Y., recently, what he thought of the "Eastern question." He hesitated a moment and then said, with a wise air, "Well, I am a Western man." He evidently means to stand by his action.

An American traveller reproved an Irish cab driver for belaboring his horse so constantly with the lash. Pat was very good natured about the matter. "Why," said the gentleman, "we do not employ whips at all now—lays in America." "So I've heard," rejoined the driver, quietly; "ye use revolvers."

"Mary, I do not approve of your entertaining your sweetest in the kitchen," said a lady to her servant. "Well, ma'am, it's very kind of you to mention it; but the man from the country, you see, ma'am, and I'm afraid he's too shy and awkward in his manners, ma'am, for you to like him to come up into the parlor," replied Mary.

The Hartford correspondent of the Springfield Republican has this story of a Congregational clergyman of that city who exchanged with another: On his way home from the church he found Linsell behind three ladies engaged in a lively discussion over the music of the service, one condemning the soprano and another the tenor, while the third stoutly defended both. As the discussion grew warm, the third lady thought to pour oil on the troubled waters, and, in the words of the clergyman, "did so to perfection by a single judicious and truthful remark, to which all of them at once assented." "And what was that pray asked his interested auditors as he told the story." "Oh," said he, "she simply said, 'Well it was a miserable sermon, anyhow.'"

The Great Shoshones Remedy and Pills.

The success that these medicines have met with since their introduction to the public some years ago, proves plainly to the most skeptical that they are medicines that perform what they are advertised to. The virtues of these medicines have been well tested, and have withstood their trial in a most satisfactory manner. For diseases of the Blood, Liver, Lungs, &c., they are unsurpassed. We have testimonials of miraculous cures of these diseases, and of many others. If any one is afflicted, let him try a bottle of the Kennedy and a box of Pills. No injurious effects will follow their use to the most delicate person, as they are purely vegetable; there being no mineral matter in them. The cost is small, while the advantages derived from their use will doubly repay you for your expense and trouble. The medicines are widely known throughout the Dominion, and are for sale by the principal medicine dealers. Try them, and be convinced that these medicines are no humbug. No one who has tried the Shoshones Pills has ever pronounced an unfavorable opinion of them, no family where they have been used will be without them. Full information may be had on all particulars respecting the use, and the experience of those who have used them, by securing the Treatise or the Circular from any druggist in the Dominion. Price of the Kennedy in pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cents a box.
