CHAPTER VII. An old man through the forest tottered His jetty locks of months ago As white as driven snow, Wending his devious way alone, Muttering by fits and gazing round With that once eagle eye, As if some hider might be found Lurking amid the foliage near by:-"Where art thou, sweetest Llunalla? Why doth thy spirit hide?—
I know that thou art nigh,— Thou still dost chide, That I Looked on with half dazed eye,

And did not with thee die. How can I fear Thy spirit form to see ?-Thou wast all kind to me: Then do not from me flee-Doutghou not hear?-The spirits of the dead still dwell Amid the scenes they loved, And, though I faithless proved, Thou lovest me still. They bound thy limbs so soft.

With cruel cords. And cursed with bitter words-Ah me! bereft. They tell me vonder star. Set in the shield of night-You star with flowing hair. All streaming in the light,

Is thy lost soul, Chased by the white hunter. And his fierce stag-hound Nell (That gnawed their limbs so well,) Both blackened now with thunder. Woe! woe is me! That I should live to see-Woe! we is me!-Oh! can it be?-No; it is false !- 'tis false! For thou art here.

Oh! come to me. I do not fear . Thy spirit face to see— List! do I hear a step? A man ! be gone ye cursed race! That slew my love before my face-The ghost !- of Iyak !-" And for a space he stood Amazed!

And fixed a searching gaze Upon the living dead! A wind rose through the wood; And every tree that stood Groaned heavily: The branches whispered fearfully Distinct, and sighed aloud ;

And every frondlet bowed In fear; E'en the soft brooklet's voice rose glassy

As if a mermaid warbled Dulcet, sad, liquid notes From out her wave-wet throat; An engle sereemed above-Defiant screamed to prove That he saw nought to fear In all the fields of air. But neither spoke Till Iyak silence broke:-"Runo, we heard thy voice, And I have come To lead thee home,-Is such thy choice ?-Then follow me. And thou shalt see

One that still loveth thee."

BRITISH ANODYNE. No Pain Killer was ever offered to the public as good as this pleasant and effectual remedy for any pain or cramp of the human family. Composed of 12 of the best medicines in the Materia Medica. AROMATIC RHUBARB CORDIAL

For the cure of Diarrhoea, Dysentery,

Cholera Morbus, Pain and Cramps in the Stomach and Bowels, and Children Teething. This Cordial is not intended to soothe children into an unnatural and disturbed Village sleep, locking up disease and its cause in the system, as most of the Soothing syrups and Godfrey's Cordial do. It doe; not contain one particle of opium, or any other narcotic, which so often produce alarming symptoms, such as disordered vision. loss of speech, stuper, spasms, convulsions, paralysis, starting in the sleep, twitching of the mouth, coldness of the feet, a low pulse and often death. This Cordial will remove all the above symptoms, and their causes. This Cordial gently moves the bowels draws off poisonous matter from the child and eases pain the first dose. It acts well on the Liver and Kidneys.

British Condition Powders.

These Powders are compased of nine kinds of Medicines, all fulfilling their different offices, viz.; Laxatives, to act on the stomach and bowels; Alteratives, to act on the liver and blood; Diureties, to act on the kidneys and bladder; Diaphoretics, to act on the skin; and Tonies, to act on the muscles and general system. They contain Demulcents, Stimulants, and Carminatives, to prevent griping or colic.

After the above explanations it may be eas. en how a Medicine like these Powder. able to effect a cure of all the diseases to w. ch horses and cattle are These Powders are not recommended in coughs or colds; although they are needed to aid the cough powders when the horse is in poor condition.

For Heaves and cought the BRITISH HEAVE POWDER Should be used. They contain seven articles expressly adapted to the treatment of throat and lung disease. We are satisfied from long experience, that all Condition and Heave Powders act better separately, because their ingredients belong to classes of Medicines which necessarily act in opposition to each other. The Expectorants, Nauseants, Sedatives and Narcotics in Heave Powders are, in their effect upon the system, directly contrary to the Tonics and Stimulants in Condition Powders, For these and other reasons we think it advisable to use the Medicines al-
