The Ontario Legislature.

The third session of the third Parliament of the Province of Ontario, which opens to day with the Speech from the Throne, will to all appearance, not differ very greatly in character from the two which have preceded it." No startling events have occur red during the year, and from the begin. ning to the end of it the Province has gone steadily forward on the road to increased usually abundant last year so much so that the Lieutenant-Governor will in all probability make some allusion to the fact and to the return of a more prosperous en as its direct consequence. Since the close of last session the work of consolidating the statues of the Province has been completed, and the Assemble will no doubt be congratuled on the fact that the legislation of last year has been embodied in the code which will, as a motter of course, be submitted for confirms.

It is not probable that much new logislation will be promised for this year. The regulation of the Civil Service is a matter demanding the attention of the Legislature and it will no doubt find a place in the list of proposed measures. The usual promise will also be given to lay before the Assembly as soon as possible a state ment of the receipts and expenditures for the year just closed, and the estimated rewhich we have entered .- Globe of wester-
