was To the Editor of the Review. ed in Dean Sin,-As Old Paths has finished four the work which he set himself to do, I was would, with your permission, beg to say main a word, especially as Old Paths in disensarge sing the question, "What is Plymouthism?" took occasion to refer to a letter of mine which appeared in a former issue of the the REVIEW. Old Faths has found a for. fon- | but one scarcely worthy of his steel. The eld for attempts to discuss a question with the which he is very imperfectly acquainted. flounders in absurdities, and drags in side issues which are quite irrelevant to the main question. His former letter has received quite enough attention from Old Paths himself, so that I need say nothing about it but this, that instead of addressing himself to Old Paths he should have directed his attention to the answers given by me to certain queries which appeared in the REVIEW, as to the teaching and practice of the so-called Galt evangelists, and which formed the groundwork of all the al-Insions made by Old Paths to the sayings and doings of these men. These answers have remained unrefuted and unchallenged to this day, which of itself is the best proof of their correctness; and it is not at all likely that the foe would have drawn a lance at this time but that the trenchant logic of Old Paths showed to what an abyss of error the foe and those like him, who with open mouths and ears drank in the teaching of the Gult men, were being led. It is too much for their poor human nature to at once acknowledge their error. and consequently the foe is put up to asand that all who differ from them are benighted apostates. This is the sum and estance of all the foe has said, barring the low personalities which he indulges in and which are so inconsistent with his professions. The for has repeatedly denied that the Galt men are Plymouthists, but in his last letter he fairly and squarely admits the charge, by taking the extraordinary ground no where else known except among Quakers and Plymouthists that every one who has the Gospel has a commission to become a preacher. That is one of the distinctive doctrines of Plymonthism, and there is no necessity of disenssing this question any further. However, I will give a few facts bearing on the doings of these Galt men which will perhaps be more readily understood by the Foe than the best constructed argument. 1. They are not all members of Mr. Smith's congregation as the Foc says. Mr. McLeish tried to obtain connection with that congregation but failed. 2. Mr. McLeish is a layma abut takes on himself to immerse his converts, as if he were a regularly ordained minister of a church. 3. The Galt men who are members of Mr. Smith's church are aware of Mr. McLeish's peculiar position and his doings, but yet they go about with him through the country preaching, and as the Latin proverb says euro disce owner. If they sail in the same boat with Mr. Me-Leisle, who thus is an avowed Plymouthist. (all but the name), they must not complain if they are set down as Plymouthists themselves. 4. The tendency of the Galt preaching is showing itself in places which have been visited by these men. In Paisbey and down by the lake shore in North Grey pricate individuals are now found on the Sabbath day dispensing the communion to their families and their neighbours. Why not? They have as good a right to do so as Mr. McLeish and the Galt men to dispense baptism and the Lord's supper; and if this sort of thing goes on there will be private individuals not a hundred miles from Durham who will attempt the same laying of unholy hands on sacred lings before long. "Fools such in where angels four to troud."

And 5, as showing the course of hose things, I would rousind the Foe and others that three years ago a conple of Plymouthists commenced their onetions in Elera, got hold of an influential runtee of the Baptist congregation there and through him got into the Baptist Church. her then attempted to hold possession of he Church as against the Baptist congregaon, until Dr. Davidson and Mr. C. Raycond, of Guelph, came to the assistance the congregation, dislodged the Plycontlasts and drove them out of the urch. These are a few facts for the conecation of all parties concerned, and er will be found to be "stubborn chials at winns ding," In proof of the opinion at these men although in name Presbyinun-excepting McLeish-are proguting the views of Plymouthism, I ht refer to the finding of the last Gen-Assembly of the Presbyterian Church Canada and the discussion thereon, and deliverance of the Presbyterian Church the United States on the same subject, the person who remains unconvinced a reading the letters of Old Paths is not n to conviction.

is to what the Foe says in his last letabout assurance, there is no need of reply. The doctrine of assurance is denied by any of the Evangelical rehes, and is held as firmly by Old as as by Mr. Bonar or Mr. Purvis ei-But the foe on this point as on g others, mistakes the question at iswhich is this: Is assurance so much e essence of faith that he who lacks all assurance of hope is thereby proved no Christian?
