Proverbs of various Nations.

A proverb is the common sense of the many, crystalized by the wit of one int a peculiar form of expression. So viewed, proverbial utterances constitute the essence of philosophy, or mark the progress of inductive thought. For, thereby, observation is set forth in the garb of general principles, as, "It you believe all you hear, you may eat all you see"; "A friend to everybedy is often a friend to nobody"; "A friend in need is a friend indeed." Here may be added others more subtile in thought, as, "A cunning man over-reaches no one half so much as himself." Or Still more sententious, as, "All human souls, never so bedarkened, love light; light once kindled, opreads till it is luminous." Again, experience announces such maxims as "Burned bairns dreed the fire": "Time and tide will wait for no one." And wisdom, daughter of observation and experience, says, take time by the forelock"; "Make hay while the sun shines"; "Strike the iron when it is hot." Prudence, the constant companion of wisdom, says "It is better to flatter fools than fight with them"; "If you braw weel ye'll drink the better." Sagacity, too, says "I ken your meaning by your mumping." A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

A DEODORIZED EXTRACT OF PETROLEUM The only Article that will Restore Hair on Bald Heads.

WHAT THE WORLD HAS BEEN WANTING FOR CENTURIES.

The greatest discovery of our day, so far as a large portion of humanity is concerned, is CAR-BOLINE, an article prepared from Petroleum, and which effects a complete and radical cure in case of baldness, or where the hair, owing to diseases of the scalp, has become thin and tends to fall out. It is also a speedy restorative, and, while its use secures a luxuriant growth of hair, it also brings back the natural color, and gives the most complete satisfaction in the using. The falling out of the hair, the accumulations of dandruff, and the premature change in color, are all evidences of a diseased condition of the scalp and the glands which nourish the hair. To arrest these causes the article used must possess medical as well as chemical virtues, and the change must begin under the scalp to be of permanent and lasting benefit. Such an article is CARBOLINE, and like many other wonderful discoveries it is found to consist of elements almost in their natural state. Petroleum oil is the article which is made to work such extraordinary results; but it is after it has been chemically treated and completely deodorized that it is in proper condition for the toilet. It was in far-off Russia that the effect of petroleum upon the hair was first observed, a Government officer having noticed that a partially bald-headed servant of his, when trimming the lamps, had a habit of wiping his oil-besmeared hands in his scanty locks, and the result was in a few months a much finer head of black, glossy hair than he ever had before. The oil was tried on horses and cattle that had lost the .r hair from the cattle plague, and the results were as rapid as they were marvelous. The manes and even the tails of horses, which had fallen out, were completely restored in a few weeks. These experiments were heralded to the world, but the knowledge was practically useless to the prematurely bald and gray, as no one in civilized society could tolerate the use of refined petroleum as a dressing for the hair. But the skill of one of our own chemists has overcome the difficulty, and, by a process known only to himself, he has, after very elaborate and costly experiments, succeeded in deodorizing petroleum, which renders it susceptible of being handled as daintily as the famous can de cologne. The experiments made with the deodorized liquid on the human hair were attended with the most astonishing results. A few applications where the hair was thin and falling gave remarkable tone and vigor to the scalp and hair. Every particle of dandruff disappears on the first or second dressing, and the liquid, so searching in its nature, seems to penetrate to the roots at once and set up a radical change from the start. It is well known that the most beautiful colors are made from petroleum, and by some mysterious operation of nature the use of this article gradually imparts a beautiful light-brown color to the hair, which, by continued use, deepens to & black. The color remains permanent for an inderful discovery of the age, and well calculated to make the prematurely bald and gray rejoice. We advise our readers to give it a trial, feeling satisfied that one application will convince them of its wonderful effects,-Pittsburg Commercial of The article is telling its own story in the hands of thousands who are using it with most gratifying and encouraging results:
