Britain's Hold on the Pacific Coast.

An interesting letter by Capt. Palliser to the Morning Post discusses the question of Britain's power and influence on the Pacific coast, as affected by the construction of the Pacific Railway. At the present time the views set forth by the writer are of special interest, and deserve the serious attention of the people of Canada. Capt. alliser says:

It is well known that the constant freezing of the Baltic on the one hand, and the pressure of China on the other, has led Russia to change front, so to speak, with her fleet, and that the ports of Nikolayevsk and Vladivestok in the North Pacific will in future be the base of operations in those seas. An able article in a military journal pointed out that these ports were connected by wire with St. Petersburg, and that a large fleet is now assembling at them. Our principal coal mine in the Pacific is at Nanaimo, close to the fine harbour at Esquimalt, British Columbia. This harbour and its coal mine is, I may say the terminus of the line now engaging the attention of the Canadian Ministers. Without in the least suggesting war between England and Russia, the facts of the latter having been forced by China to take the course she has done, will force us to protect our fine harbour, with its excellent coal mine in the Pacific, and therefore the prospect of its being connected by rail with Quebec becomes of the utmost importance. Lieutenant-General Sir Edward Selby Smyth who has just vacated his command of the Canadian forces, a command which extends from Quebec to Esquimalt, stated in his last report, "Our security in the Pacific requires Esquimalt to be well guarded our fleet must keep the sea, if necessary, in all weathers, and they cannot do so without coal." Sir Edward Lascelles accordingly fortified Esquimalt as far as means would admit, and has mounted rifled cannon on some of the works. It is a beginning of an important future, for here in years to come will undoubtedly assemble the fleets of England and her colonies for the protection of their vast Pacific trade. The railroad to Esquimalt would enable seamen, soldiers, cannon and stores to reach these fleets in twenty days from Woolwich and Portsmouth. Without this railroad the volunteer artillery, supported by a couple of English men of war, could hardly resist a determined coup de main. How near we were to this in 1878 may be gathered from the fact while only two of our ships were at British Columbia, thirteen Russian cruisers lay at San Francisco. Let us profit by this escape; it is plain from Sir E. Selby Smith's report, that to loose our finest harbour and coal mine in the West would be a serious matter, if not a positive and lasting disaster. No feeling of irritation, therefore, on the duties charged on our goods by Canadians should make us to ignorethe enormous cost to them, and the great advantage to us, of their railway, now in hand to our gate of Pacific Ocean. Four millions drawn at sight was not considered too much by the people of England to pay for their shares in the Suez Canal; let us hope that the time will soon come when not only England but Australia, also will recognize and act upon the necessity of the the completion of this great western highway of the British Empire.

The Northwest Indians.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—Major Walsh, of the North west Mounted Police, arrived in the city yesterday, and left for Prescott in the evening. He was asked by a reporter to give any information that would be of interest to the public concerning the Indians of the North West. He said that when he left Wood Mountains on the 12th of June Sitting Bull was peaceable and quiet. He says Sitting Bull promised him that he would place no obstacle in the way of any af his tribe who desired to return to the United States. He thought it very likely the Indians had banded together to hunt buffalo, in which case no one is allowed to withdraw without the council deciding to abandon the hunt. The buffalo frequent south side of the Missouri and it is probable some of the Indians desired th cross the stream to hunt them, which Sitting Bull had refused to allow, suspecting that this was their intention, although they declared they were anxious to return to the United States. Sitting Bull is described by Major Walsh as being the most plucky, intelligent and energetic savage living and that he will never consent to surrender unconditionally to the U.S. authorities. He is 48 years of age and has had five wives, three of whom are now living. He has a small family, consisting of three daughters and one son.

Mr. Smith, of London, Ont., the inspector for the Medical and Dental Colleges of Ontario, caused the arrest of a man named Tillotson, of Sarnia, on Saturday, for practising without license or registration. He was fined $100 and costs.

Sharp Work with the Afghans.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—An official despatch dated Candahar, Aug. 21, says:—The sortie of the 16th inst., against the village on the east face of the city, secured us from further molestation on that side, but our loss was heavy. Several officers were killed, and several severely wounded. Lieut. McLaine, who has been missing since the battle of Kushk-i-Nakhud, is a prisoner in Ayoob's hands. He is well treated. The enemy throw shells into the city occasionally, and keep up a fire against the ramparts with sharpshooters, but do very little harm. The investment is trusted to the Candahar troops and the the Ghazis and Gabulese are encamped around Ayoob Khan three miles off on the Herat road. A letter of the 20th inst., from Tanner commanding at Khelat-i-Ghilzai, received at Chaman this morning, says:—'We have heard from Roberts to-day. He is four marches off, and will be here on the 24th. We are all well, and are collecting supplies for Roberts. We are well off for supplies here. Roberts expects to be near Candahar on the 29th.'

A Simla despatch states that in the sortie from Candahar, Brigade General Brook, Colonel Newport, Major French, Captain Cruikshank, and three lieutenants were killed. Three officers were severely and two slightly wounded, and 180 men killed. The enemy's artillery and sharpshooters fire constantly.

A despatch from Killa Abdoola says that large numbers of Ghazis are flocking down from the Khelat-i-Ghilzai road and other directions to join Ayoob Khan, who could not now retreat if he wished, as the Ghazis are determined to fight to the last.

The London Spectator estimates General Roberts' force at 10,000 men, of whom 1,000 will probably remain in the citadel, leaving 14,000 for the attack on Ayoob. As the latter's force was estimated at 15,000, of whom only 5,000 were regarded as reliable troops, the odds should be on the side of the British. A despatch from the British political officer at Candahar says that Ayoob has only his regulars and a few Ghazis, and that he wishes to retreat. General Phayre is opposed by 800 men at the Yakhitipul Pass, and his communications are threatened.

London, Aug. 31.—A despatch from Chaiman states that large numbers of tribesmen are joining the detachment of Ayoob Khan's force at Tukhitipul to oppose Gen. Phayre's advance.

The Viceroy of India telegraphs as follows:—"Messenger who left Candahar on the 26th inst. reports that Ayoob Khan's force on the Argandab is 23.00 strong."

A Dead Head Ride.

FIVE LADS INSTANTLY KILLED.

Lowell, Mass., Aug. 24.—Last evening five young men residing in this city, who had been attending the Caledonian picnic at Andover, took the train for this city. Either for lack of money or for sport they clambered to the top of a passenger car. When the train reached Sprague's Bridge, two miles from this city, all five were swept off and killed. At the time it was only known that one had met his death in this manner: this was John Shinnick, aged 16. He was thrown between the cars, where the conductor found him. He lived about twenty minutes. The body was brought here and identified. Some time later the trackman found the bodies of others lying in the ditches, three on one side and one on the other. A freight train was sent from here and brought them in about midnight. They were Wm. Mahar, 15; John McNamara, 16; Timothy Nolan, 17; Patrick Ryan, 16. There is a space of 22 inches between the cars and the bridge, and it is therefore conjectured that the lads were sitting up when struck. Probably all but Shinnick died almost instantly, as their wounds on the head and back were terrible. The undertaker's rooms where the bodies lie have been thronged to-day.
