Who works for farmers night and day And gives them every chance to pay, Forturns his work the easiest way? John Norval.
Who shod your horses first of all, That they could neither slip nor fall, But finally held that they might fall, And their report the same to-day? John Norval.
Who set the irons on your first sleigh, And waited patiently for the pay, And always repeats the same to-day? John Norval.
Who mends your hoe, your fork, your spade, And fixes up your cranin blade, And leaves all Blacksmiths in the shade? John Norval.
Who knows so well to work a file, Or make a fire stay on a while, And always meets you with a smile? John Norval.
Who ran to help you when you fell, And heard the rig was broke would sell, Or fix it up to make it sell? John Norval.
Who fans the fire to make it burn, And strikes the iron at every turn, And when he's sick who makes you mourn? JOHN NORVAL.
