Three Wives.

Three men of wealth meeting not long since in New York, says an exchange, the conversation turned upon their wives. Instead of finding fault with women in general, and their wives in particular. Each one obeyed the wise man's advice,and "gave honor upon his wife."

"I tell you what it is," said one of the men, "they may say what they please about the uselessness of modern women, but my wife has done her share in securing our success in life. Every body knows that her family was aristocratic, and exclusive, and all that, and when I married her she never done a day's work in her life; but when W. & Co. failed I had to commence at the foot of the hill again she discharged the servant and chose out a neat little cottage and done her own housekeeping until I was better off."

"And my wife," said a second, "was an only daughter, caressed and petted to death; and everydody said:, Well if he will marry a doll like that, he'll make the greatest mistake of his life;' but when I came home the first year of marriage, sick with the fever, she nursed me back to health, and I never knew her to murmer because I thought we couldn't afford any better style or more luxuries."

"Well, gentlemen," chimed in a third, "I married a smart, healthy, pretty girl, but she was a regular blue-stocking. She adored Tennyson and named her first baby Ralph Waldro Emerson, and the second Maud;but I tell you what it is, and the peaker's eyes grew suspiciously moist, "when we laid poor little Maud in her last bed at Auburn my poor wife had no remembrance of neglect or motherly care and the little drases that still lie in the locker were all made by her own hands."

Fixing Her Hair

When a girl concludes to put up her hair and make herself look sweet, the best policy is to let her have her own way. She can't be drawn away from her mirror by any of the ordinary things of this life. A fire will sometimes do it, but it has been shown that even a fire may fail to excite some girls. Some time ago a New York lodging house took fire, and at a most uncomfortable hour when most girls have there back hair down. One of the young ladies heard that the place was burning down, but she didn't feel like making her appearance before the crowd that had gathered in the street looking like a perfect fright. She shut the door leading into the hall to keep out the flames, and went to her mirror to fix her hair. Anybody who has waited for a girl to fix her hair knows that it takes time and a great deal of it. This girl wasn't any quicker than the average,and she was very particular about having her hair done up exactly as it should be. The fire had cut off her chances of escape by the stairs, and her lover, after appealing to her for some time,finally lost his patience and got away without her. A fireman got up to the room on a ladder, and she made him sit on the edge of the window and wait until she had arranged her hairpins and ribbonds for a right sort of public appearance, then she threw herself in his arms—it was so romantic—and slid down the ladder with him, looked just sweet. The whole thing was a tremendous success, but when the careful young girl was safely landed on the pavement she found out that she had forgotten her stockings.

SUBSTITUTE FOR FLESH MEAT.—It is well to have one or two substantial dishes as our principal meals, as rich at least, as flesh, in flesh or tisue forming materials. Haricot beens, peas and lentils are much richer. These may all be well cooked by soaking over night, then parboiling, or stewing in a new water, and then baking, if that way is preferred, the flavour is improved by the addition of a little butter and sugar. Macaroni is also a good nurishing dish. Break and put in boiling water,and boil till tender but not pasty; drain and put into a baking dish with bits of butter or a little cream, and grated cheese distributed through it. Grated breaderumbs and cheese may be used for a covering. Bake half an hour in a slow oven. The top may be lightly browned. Macaroni is made from Italian wheat very rich in gluten. It is the chief food of millions, and goes well with vegetables and fruit. Fried Polenta is also a very hearty good food. Take the yellow meal of Indian corn (maize), stir it into boiling water, and boil half an hour, like oatmeal. When cold, cut in slices and fry in butter or oil. It may be eaten with golden syrup, as also may the fresh boiled polenta, or hasty pudding. With such food there is really no need of flesh,fish, or fowl. There is only one caution to be given: —dont eat to much of them.—Herald of Health.

The Engineering says :—Most of our readers will remember the hypothesis put forth by Sir William Thompson in his Presidental address to the British Association several years ago, to the effect that life probably originated on the earth form the ruins of another world. The hypothesis, which was framed in admirable language, was contained in the concluding part of his address, and produced a shock of surprise among the audience. The idea has been subsequently ridiculed, but the recent researches of Dr. Otto Hahn would seem to prove that in Germany at least it has adherents. Dr. Hahn has just published a quarto volumn, under the title of "Die Meteorite und ihre Organismen," profusely illustrated by phtogoraphs of the microscopic aspects of meteoric stones, and his conclusion is that the meteorites are full of fossil debris of spongiari and polypes, some of which exist on the earth, and others which belong to other planets. But M. Meunier, of the French Academy, has demonstrated that the figures which Herr Hahn has taken for organic vestiges are merely clustering crystals of enlatite. In fact, M. Meunier successfully creates the soophites in question in his laboratory.

Some unknown parties entered the dairy shed on Mr. William Lidegett's farm, near Brantford, on Tuesday night, and with a logging chain hung one of his best milch cows to a cross beam. The animal was dead when discovered,

MISCELLENEOUS.

The Indians have killed thirty men in charge of a waggon train in New Mexico and burned the waggons.

A despatch from Marsala says an infuriated mob attacked and pillaged the Evangelical Church there, and a minister barely escaped death.

Dr. Dawson, Principal of McGill University, was awarded the Lyell medal by the Geological Society of London, on the 18th of February, at the annual meeting of that Society.

"Is that clean butter?" asked a grocer of a boy who brought a quantity to market."I should think it ought to be," replied the boy, "for mam and Sal were more than two hours picking the hairs out of it last night."

Out of 34 tickets sold the first two days of this week in Brantford, says the Expositer, to families and young men intending to settle elsewhere, 32 were for the States and 2 for Manitoba. Still there is no exodus; still the N. P. is building up this country in wealth and prosperity.

ALTERS THE CASE.—"Sleepin', Tonald," said a Highlander to a drowsy acquaintance who was ruminating on the grass in a horizontal position. "No, Tuncan," was the ready answer. "Then, Tonald, would you now lend me ten shillings?" was the next question. "Ough, ough!" was the response, with a heavy snore; "I'm sleepin' noo, Tuncan, my lad."

A fire broke out in the rear of Stevenson's cabinet shop, Clinton, on Thursday at one o'clock, spreading over and demolishing Stevenson's cabinet shop and Wright & Co.'s dry goods shop, the building owned by D. B. Strathy, John McGarvis' grocery, owned by himself, W. Coats brick dry goods and general store, and a large frame warehouse attached; a three storey frame building owned by D. B. Strathy and occupied by C.W. Graham, as a sewing machine depot and dwelling.

The fine Danish Proverbs are very like those of Scotland in there character. Let us take a few: "The Lord will not fail to come, though he may not come on horseback;" "Under white ashes often lie glowing embers;" You may often feel that heavily on your back which you took lightly on your conscience;" "Peter, I'm taking a ride,' said the goose, when the fox was running into the wood with her;" "When joy is in the parlor, sorrow is in the passage;" "A headless army fights badly;" "He who would make a tool of himself will find a good many people to help him;" "The foot of the farmer manures the field;" "He is nearest to God who has fewest wants;" "He is young enough who has health, and he is rich enough who has no debts."

Headache.

Why become a suffering martyr to Headache, when Burdock Blood Bitters, will surely cure the cause of all varieties of either Sick or Nervous Headache, cleanse the System, regulate the Secretions, relieve Constipation of the Bowels, purify the Blood, renovate the Liver and tone up the Nervous System, and distressing headache will be unknown? Sample Bottles 10 Cents, Large Bottles $1.00.—b158.

A young man named Barker, working at a mill on the town line between Bayham and Houghton, a few days ago stepped up to a revolving shaft for the purpose of oiling some machinery, when a protruding nut caught his jacket, and drew him into the machinery inflicting fatal injuries about the face and head.
