Uncle Nick.

Uncle Nick was a good man, but he found a great deal of fault, and especially with the current religion of the day.

"I want," says UncleNick, "and we al want, a religion that not only bears on the sinfulness of sin, but the rascality of lying and stealing-a religion that banishes all small measures from the counters, small baskets from the stalls, pebbles from cotton bags, sand from sugar, chickory from coffee, alum from bread, lard from butter, strychnine from wine, and water from milk-

"The religion that is to advance the more baskets of foreign wines than the vinyards ever produced bottles."

"I tell you," says Uncle Nick, "the religion that is to "sanctify" the world pays its debts. It does not consider forty ets. returned for one-hundred given, according to vospel, even it it should be according to law. It looks upon a man who has failed in trade, and who continues to live in luxury, as a thief. It looks on a man who promises to pay, and who fails to pay on demand, with or without interest, a liar."

Is not Uncle Nick pretty nearly right?
