They appear singly and in pairs, and again sympathising friend remarked upon hi break up into small ones, and small ones | would look thin too," was the melancholy unite to form great chasms, into which half rejoinder, "if you had to get up before daywould still be room for more. Sometimes wood, and feed the cattle before breakfast. the spots are visible to the naked eye, and I tell you what it is, if I don't get some Hundreds of observers all over the world many weeks." watch the sun's face every clear day, and keep a record of the number of spots, their size and there action in which they move, for as the sun turns on his axis they turn with him, some of them remaining for months without much change, some taking on new forms and some disappearing enious sun or the spots that are visible more LOCKETS, than ninety millions of miles away.

Once in about eleven years the sun takes on his present sun spot phasa, and we are approaching the maximum of disturbance. No one knows the cause. Some believe that it is planetary attraction, some that it is the fall of great masses of meteoric matter, and some that it is the result of internal commotion and the rush upward of gaseous explosions in comparison with which our fiercest volcanic eruptions are but the flicker of a flame. Besides the sun spot agitation, the gaseous outbursts are marked and vivid. The tongues of flame or rosy protuberances are darting forth in all directions and bearing their testimony to the solar commotion. Mr Trouvelot, of Cambridge, who makes daily observation of the sun's chromosphere gives a graphic description of a remarkable protuberance that he witnessed on the 26th of November. When first seen it was large and complicated, extending upward from the sun about one hundred thousand miles. Three or four hours after it had developed into huge proportions, extending far out into space, and vanishing gradually to regione where it could not be perceived. As nearly as it could be measured, it reached a height of over quarter the sun's diameter, or about two hundred and thirty-five thousand miles. Such a protuberance hurled upward from the earth would almost reach the moon. Two hours after, the whole structure had collapsed, and was only about eighteen thousand miles high. Observations like this give an idea of Africa seems to be the favorite hunting- mighty forces at work on the solar orb, and ground this season for the nobility of the makes observers long for the time when a sporting world, more especially the Eng- satisfactory solution may be found for this lish aristocracy. #### Shott and Nott

A duel was lately fought in Texas by Alexander Shott and John S. Nott. Nott was shot and Shott was not. In this case it is better to be Shott than Nott. There was a rumor that Nott was not shot, and Shott avows that he shot Nott, which proves either that the shot Shott shot at Nott was not shot, or that Nott was shot notwith standing. Circumstantial evidence is not always good. It may be made to appear on trial that the shot Shott shot shot Nott or, as accidents with firearms are frequent shot Shott himself, when the whole ship would resolve itself into its original ele ments, and Slot would be and Nott would be not. We think however, that the shot Shott shot shot not Shott but Nott; anyhow, it is hard to tell who was shot. All forms of Nervous Debility so commonly prevalent, yield to the vitalizing powers Burdock Blood Bitters.
