The steamer City of Queen Sound, of the Canadian Transit Line, arrived down at Collingwood, on Friday afternoon with 20,000 bushels of wheat and a deck load from Duluth and Lake Superior ports. The City of Queen Sound has the coveted honor of being the first of the Canadian or American lines of boats to sail from the Sault through Lake Superior and down again. On the up-trip much fog and considerable ice was encountered principally floating fields. Thunder Bay was full out to Thunder Cape, and it was not until after the second trial that a passage was effected.
