The New President.

SKETCH OF GENERAL ARTHUR'S LIFE.

Chester Allan Arthur is 50 years of age, and a native of Fairfield County, Vermont. His father was a Baptist minister, who came from England to Canada, and later to the United States. The Vice President's education was obtained at a country school near Troy, in the neighborhood of which his father preached. He was afterwards sent to Union College, from which he was graduated in 1848. He then studied law, and in 1850 was admitted to the bar. He formed a law partnership with Erastus D. Culver, who was afterwards American Minister to a South American State. On the election of Mr. Culver as judge of civil courts in Brooklyn the partnership was dissolved, and Gen. Arthur went into a partnership with a Mr. Gardener, who died about 1865. In 1871 the firm of Arthur, Phelps & Knevals was formed, with Gen. Arthur as the senior partner, and the late District attorney, Benjamin K. Phelps as another partner. Shortly before this, Gen. Arthur was appointed one of the counsel to the tax commissioners at a salary of $10,000 a year. The only legal case of note in which General Arthur acted as counsel was to the suit of Jonathan Lemmons, of Virginia, to recover possession of eight slaves that had been declared free by Judge Paine, of the Superior Court of this State. Lemmons had been incautiously passing through New York with his slaves, intending to ship them to Texas, when they were discovered and freed by an order of Judge Paine, who was of the opinion that the fugitive slave Act did not hold the slaves. The State of Virginia directed its Attorney-General to appeal from the decision. Thereupon the Legislature of New York directed the Governor to employ counsel to defend the slaves. E. D. Culver, and Joseph Blunt were appointed, but withdrew and afterward William M. Evarts and General Arthur were retained as counsel for the slaves. The decision of Judge Paine was sustained by the Superior Court, and also affirmed by the Court of Appeals. In 1856 General Arthur prosecuted a city car line on behalf of Lizzie Jenkins, a colored woman, and superintendent of a Sunday School, who was roughly ejected from a car on account of her color. The case was tried before Judge Rockwell, of Brooklyn, and the Jury gave the plaintiff $500 damages. General Arthur got his military title through service on the staff of Governor Edwin D. Morgan. He was appointed engineer-in-chief on the Governor's staff on January. 1st, 1861, and on Jan. 27th, 1862, he was made quarter-master-gen. He was active in both positions. General Arthur gave his attention to city politics at the close of the war, and was for a time chairman of the Republic committee known as the Morgan Republicans, which met at Broadway and Twenty-third street. On the 20th of November, 1871, he was appointed by President Grant, collector of the port of New York, succeeding Thomas Murphy. He served one term, and was re-appointed in December, 1875. He was suspended by R. B. Hayes, July 21st, 1878, charges being preferred against him by John Sherman, Edwin A. Merril became collector in his place. In September, 1879, he was chosen Chairman of the Republican States Committee, and was Chairman of the Central Committee of the County for two years. In May, 1880, he was nominated Vice-President on the Republic ticket. Since the adjournment of the Senate he has been forwarding Mr. Conkling's canvass for a re election. General Arthur married a daughter of Captain Herndon who was lost on board his vessel, the Central America. His wife died about eight months ago. He has two children, a son and a daughter. He has a brother who is major in the regular army, and one of his sisters is the wife of a Mr. Elroy, of Albany.

Dean Alford's Industry.

I have already spoken of Dean Alford's amazing industry, but I am quite hopeless of conveying an adequate impression of it. So far I have but merely alluded to his connection with The Contemporary Review, in which he was himself one of the most frequent writers, in addition to his editorial duties; and it must not be forgotten that he who goes through this multifarious literary work was all the time at the head of the metropolitan cathedral of England, and besides being in much request as a preacher, was one of the most prominent members of the Ecclesiastical Commission and of the Biblical Revision Committee. Further, he travelled much, and had a very large private correspondence. It was to me for some time wholly inexplicable how all this work could in any way be done, but I was a little enlightened in the matter during a visit I had the privilege of making at the Deanery in the year 1864. I well remember that on the first morning of my stay there, when he came down to breakfast at an hour that most people would call early, Dean Alford brought with him no less than twenty-two pages of manuscript, the first-fruits already garnered of that day's labor. He had, in fact, as he told me, written this considerable portion of a magazine article before rising, having invented for himself a writing apparatus which could be used in bed,its ingenious construction enabling him to form letters in straight lines while the hands were beneath the bed clothes. In case of wakefulness during the night hours, this machine was at once brought into play; and it also accompanied him in his journeying by railway,'much writing being thus got through in the trains. Nearly all the manuscript which reached the office from him, private letters as well as 'copy' for the printers, had been traced in pencil, the characters being distinct, though at times a little straggling.—Alexander Strahan, in Day of Rest.

The Middlesex Grand Jury on Thursday morning threw out the bill for manslaughter against Captain Rankius and Superintendant Parish, of the ill-fated vessel Victoria, which sank in the Thames on Queen's Birthday last.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The mines of Arizona are very rich. It is not an uncommon thing for them to run as high as 160 pounds of scalped minor to the ton.

Beautifiers.

Ladies, you cannot make fair skin, rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes with all the cosmetics of France, or beautifiers of the world, while in poor health, and nothing will give you such good health, strength, buyant spirits and beauty as Hop Bitters. A trial is certain proof.—Telegraph.

The famous geysers of Iceland are dying out. There is now but two active ones in the country, and the Great Geyser does not spout up at all.

Get the Best.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the best, most prompt and safest cure for Cholera Morbus—Dysentery—Sick Stomach—Cramps—Cholic and Cholera Infantum that has yet been discovered. Its popularity is undeminished by age. All medicine dealers sell it.—b185.

Strathroy market will be free after October 1st, and Wednesdays and Saturdays will be the special market days. Hucksters will not have a right to purchas before 11 a. m.

Grandmother.

Used to to say, "Boys, if your blood is out of order try Burdock tea;" and they had to boil it down in kettles, making a nasty smelling decoction; now you get all the curative propreties put up in a palatable form in Burdock Blood Bitters. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents—.b185.

The story is brought by a Sepoy from Herat that British soldiers who were captured by Ayoob Khan's forces in the disastrous Maiwand encounter were sold into slavery.

Sea Sickness.

The best remedy and preventative for Sea Sickness, is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It is also the best remedy for all sorts of Summer complaints, whether on sea or on land it will not fail you. All druggists sell it, 37½ a bottle.—b185.

A Witness being interrogated as to whether the defendant in the case was under the influence of liquor, replied. "Well, I can't say that exactly; but I saw him sitting in the middle of the floor, making grabs in the air, and saying he'd be whipped if he did not catch the bed the next time it ran round him."

"The Leaves shall be for the Healing o Nations.

The leaf of the Wild Strawberry has verified the Scriptural quotation. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the marvel of healing in all varities of Summer Complaints, and Fluxes, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infatum and every form of Bowel Complaints of children and adults promptly yield to its power of healing.—b185.

On the western coast of Sumatra immense coal fields have been discovered in a table land of sandstone rising to a height of 2,400 feet above the sea level. According to the description given, these coal fields contain no less than 300,000,000 tons of good coal. The three seams of coal have a thickness of twenty, seven, and seven feet, separated by sheets of sandstone from fifty to seventy feet thick.

A Good Examiner.—A friend of mine met an old servant, and on asking where she had been, she said she had been at one o'Mister Morrison's examins. "What kind o' an examiner's he, Janet?" "Oh," said Janet, "a terrible fine exam'er; spiers a hantle o' questions an answers them a' himsel'."—Past and Present of Aberdeenshire, by Rev. William Paul.

No Matter how witty you may be some one is likely to be more witty still and turn your weapon against yourself. When two gentlemen fell out with each other one of them went to the other's house, and in large letters wrote "scoundrel" on the front door. The next day, when they met by accident, number two said to number one, "How did you dare to call on me yesterday, sir?" "I did not call on you and I never will call on you," was the bitter reply. "Well sir," continued number two "either you or one of your friends called, for this morning, when I came out of the house, I saw your name written on my door."
