-The Irish troubles are settling down. Many of the farmers have paid their rents in defiance of the Land League, and thousands of cases of appeal for reduction of rents have been entered before the Land Commissioners-in fact so great is the press of business that sub-commissions are talked of for the purpose of hastening the settlement of all disputed cases. The lead ers of the Land League, who have not been thrown into prison, have decamped,-Eagan, the Treasurer of the League having gone to Paris, where he amuses himself by issuing bombastic manifestoes to such his dupes as may still be found in the Emerald Isle. Archbishop McCabe has issued a second pastoral letter fin which he very pointedly denounces the Land Leaguers, and tells the people that their choice now lies between "following the men who have with God, and disgrace before the Christian world, or, the Bishops of Ireland who have faithfully stood by the Irish people, with whom their lives are irrevocably bound up."
