Priceville. MR. EDITOR,-Would you allow the small space in your paper to contradict the report of a school meeting beld in Priceville, by your mnonymous correspondent "Scribbler." I must emphatically say that his statements are false and misleading and ntended as a stab in the dark at myself as he very well knows that he dare not make any such statements over his own signsture, but shields himself under the wing of the Editor. If the cowardly Scribbler will come out over his own signature, I will then handle him (through your columns, il you please) without gloves.

I am, Sir, yours truly, ALEX. WEBSTER. Priceville, Jan. 9th, 1882.
