On received the ward off throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache, "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of him senseless to the ground. On recovering consciousness he found York standing for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remover him with a revolver and threatening edy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all to finish his fiendish work by blowing his brains out. In a stupor the unfortunate victim staggered to his home and inform ed his wife of what had occurred, the gash on his forehead bearing fearful testimony to the truth of his statement and the design of his assailant. Information was lodged with a J. P. named Brock, but he being ill and unable to attend to the case, the parties met and came to an agreement, by which Dewal in consideration of a paltry $20 bar- Harness Shop in Durham, gained not to prosecute the criminal for the crime which in a few days was to hurry him to his grave. Thus the affair stood until Sunday, when Dewal appearing to be loosing his faculties by stupor, medical assistance was called in, but it was of no avail. On Monday there were symptoms of pneumonia in addition, and on Tuesday he died. Before dying he made a deposition Saddles, setting forth the particulars of the quarrel, which corresponded with the above version.

On visiting the house of the deceased, his widow and six little ones were found bemoaning the loss of him who had been their only provider, one poor little urchin about three years old asking almost incessantly, "Where is Pa?" and the sad-hearted mother had no words of answer. The poor Kept in STOCK. little one was at length consoled and fell asleep, while the rest of the children stood round in hushed expectancy.

The evidence brought out at the inquest brought the guilt home to Yorke. The medical evidence as to the cause of death, the deposition of the dead man, the confes. sion of Yorke himself made previous to his victim's death, were all strongly condemnatory. After hearing the evidence of the witnesses the jury brought in a verdict that Daniel Dewal had come to his death by a blow from an axe in the bands of Henry Yorke, and that Yorke was guilty of manslanghter. After this verdict was received a warrant was made out for the arrest of Yorke, but owing to his illness it is not likely that he will be removed to the county gaol at Barrie for a few days, if indeed death does not ensue from the injuries he inflicted on himself while attempting suicide. If he recovers sufficiently he will be sent to await his trial at the next Assizes.
