

YOUNG FOLKS. A Common Affliction

Permanently Cured by Taking

AYERS Sarsaparilla

A CAR-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many remedies, but none gave me any relief, but was last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I purchased six bottles, and used them persistently, but yielded to the temptation to purchase others, and yielded to the temptation to purchase others, and took the contents of three of these bottles before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were

Free from Eruptions

as they were. My business, which is that of a car-driver, requires me to work with gloves, and when weather, often without gloves, and the temperature scalded, one

Ayer's The Sarsaparilla

Admitted at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Pills Cleanse the Bowels,

NEW MALADIES.

Modern Civilization is Responsible for Many New Diseases.

It seems to be an indisputable fact that the rapid advance during the last 50 years in what we are pleased to call civilization is steadily bearing fruit in a rich harvest of new diseases of the body and disorders of the mind. As fast as the progress in medical, physical, and moral science enables us to combat, and often conquer, the old diseases, the habits and conditions of modern life seems to give birth to new and undreamed of maladies.

Railway traveling is responsible for frequent cases of nervous debility and exhaustion.

Cycling is a boon that we could ill dispense with, yet there is a distinct danger in the wearing of a bad style and developing that deformity known as "cervical's back." Even typewriting has produced a complaint called "the typewriter's disease." The operator, in consequence of overstrain and long application in sitting, gets what is called "key-board," gets attacks of a kind of mental and mental paralysis, which renders work absolutely impossible.

An obscure British Medical Journal, two quite new diseases may now be added to the list of those arising from the changes in modern life. The first is a malady associated with the ball. It is known as "scrumpox," and is an infection that is liable to be transmitted from person to person, which through persons are apt to catch on the faces of players during "scrimmages." This is a disease that looks out for the most careful protection, have to be taken for the dislocation of joints and the avoidance of abrasions. The other disease is called "the typewriter's disease." It appears to be due to "the repeated sudden and whip-like contractions of the spines," bruising the muscular-spiral nerve."

BRIDAL CUSTOM.

A singular marriage custom prevails among the French Canadians in Quebec. After the morning marriage service in the church the bridal party, in calèche or cabriolet, make a tour of calls upon relatives and friends during the day, and then return again to the church for the evening.

Before the evening dance at the bride's new home comes the supper. When the company rises from the table the host keeps his seat, and some one asks with great interest, "Why madame wait? Is she so soon in bad grace?"

The reply is, "Some one has stolen my slippers; I cannot walk."

Then they carry her, chair and all, into another room, the room while a knocky-annoying vendor of soaps and shoes. He lingers before the slippers are dried and tries on her best shoes, and boots and shoes of every variety and size, until at last he finds her missing shoe.

The search is made for her, for a good price, which is spent in buying the company. If the groom is not watchful the thief steals her hat and cloak, which he takes off, and then steals her shoes. He has been known to steal the bride's garter, for which there must be liberal pay.

The event of the evening is a jolly truce. The guest volunteers to outlast the bride. If successful, the visitor demands a prize from the groom.

New York has 28,000 street lamps, Paris, 50,000; and London 75,000.

MOST SUCCESSFUL REMEDY FOR SPAVIN AND AST.

Certain in its effects and inexpensive.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

CANTON, Me., Apr. 5, '92.

Dr. J. K. Kendall, of Canton, Me., has one of the best remedies for spavin and ast. His "Kendall's Spavin Cure" with good success. It is a simple, safe, and inexpensive remedy. It can be had in small boxes and five boxes will keep a doctor's office in supply for a year.

For sale by all druggists, or address Dr. J. K. KENDALL, CANTON, ME., ENGLISH FALLS, Vt.

PATENTS.

TRADE MARKS,

DESIGNS,

COPYRIGHTS,

TRADE NAMES,

TRADE SECRETS,

TRADE SECRETS,</div