A TRIP FROM BANFF TO VANCOUVER.

Before leaving the Rockies we must make Leution of one station in particular and that is Banff. One hears so much tak of Banff by passengers who have been there or on their way there, that he is not a little surprised on arriving at that station to find himself in the heart of the woods, where, at fir t sight, no buildings are to be seen but a small station house. But it is not long until he sees hotel cabs of a first class style standing around in readiness to convey passengers getting off there, to one of the fine betels about one and a half miles distant, just discornible brough the woods. These hotels are built for the accommodation of those who visit the famous hot springs of this vicinity. They have all the conveniences and comfort of the most fashionable city hotels as well as an additional alvantage of a bath in water heated by some chemical process which is being carried on in the unexplorable regions of the earth's centre The two principal hotels are the Sanitar ium and the Hot Springs Hotel, the latter belonging to the C.
