REVIEW AND GLOBE

DAILY GLOBE.
We are able this week to make an extraordinary announcement. We can furnish the Daily Globe during this session of Parliament for 50 cts. and for one month, if the session does not last that long. This will be a fighting session, by appearances, therefore get the fullest news, at once.

WEEKLY GLOBE.
We will furnish you with the Weekly Globe to the 1st of January 1897 for 15c or Globe and Review for the same time for 30 cts. We will furnish both papers to the 1st of January 1898 for $1.50. Those who have already paid for the Review may have the same advantages on the Globe if desired.

Our subscribers need not be told of the excellence of the Globe which has no equal as a weekly newspaper even outside of politics. Moreover new features are to be added in a month or so, that will largely increase its value.

The Review will be better than ever this coming year, and as a local paper will have no superior. We have to thank our friends for the generous support of the past and hope our efforts to supply them with local and general news at a very low clubbing rate will be appreciated in "hard times." Other papers desired can also be secured at low rates.

Orillia was at the highest pitch of enthusiasm last week over the return of Gaudaur the champion carman of the world to his home. Toronto honored him in no common way and the Mayor of Orillia, surrounded by the most prominent citizens and in presence of acclaiming thousands, gave the Champion a warm address and a purse of $500.

GLADSTONE—ARMENIA

If there be one man who at present represents the Anglo Saxon race, the world over, in humanity of feeling, or in a desire to give to all peoples the benefits of advanced Christian civilization, that man is Gladstone. Shocked by the horrible frequency of massacres which would have been regarded cruel 400 years ago, civilization has stood helpless, in the presence of international jealousy, and all eyes turned to the old man eloquent to speak a word that would voice the national sympathy, if it might not rouse diplomacy to more vigorous action.

The word was spoken in Liverpool last Thursday, and was wired all over the world, even the "Great Assassin" himself having had it telegraphed to him. The utterance was vigorous without being hysterical, and his utterances either in manner or in matter show no traces of senility. A despatch says: "Apart from the marvellous oratorical beauty of the speech, its most prominent feature was the statesmanlike quality of the plan of action proposed." His chief suggestion was that our ambassador should be withdrawn and the Turkish Ambassador in London given his papers, and though the audience was largely composed of bitter political opponents, no whisper of dissent was heard. Expressions like the following will live and be pondered over. "The weakness of the diplomacy is about to be strengthened by the echoes of a nation's voice." "To the guilt of massacre is added the impudence of denial." and the words he puts into the Sultan's mouth should be stimulating to halting governments "I have tried your patience in distant places, now I will try it under your own eyes. I have desolated my provinces and will have desolated my capital." Lord Rosebery is at present a dim personality, and even Lord Salisbury is eclipsed by the virile old man of 87.

THE QUEEN.

We commented last week on the noteworthy event of the Queen's reign being now the longest in the long roll of British History. We reproduce from a Toronto paper the subjoined sympathetic notice.

Her Majesty has outlived all her early friends and faithful servants. All who officiated at her coronation have passed into the land of shadows; and of the distinguished statesmen then living, only one, Mr. Gladstone, remains. She has been called upon to mourn the loss of many a warm personal friend; and if she has tasted much of the happiness of human life she has tasted likewise much of its bitterness, for death has ever been busy laying his finger here and there upon her beloved friends, relatives and associates.

The Queen's reign is coincident with the most surprising progress, both at home and abroad. It has been the age of railways, trans-oceanic steaming, the telegraph, the cable, and the telephone; of parliamentary reform, and the abolition of the corn laws; in every colony she has seen instituted free and responsible government. There has been no stagnation, not even a brief period, in the arts and sciences. While some peoples have risen and others have fallen during the last fifty years, the English race has continued to spread and multiply and to show evidences of its vitality in all quarters of the world. With much of this progress, and the love of the nation to constitutional liberty, the name of the Queen is inextricably associated.

Through her influence justice has become more accessible; education more universal; virtue more honored; religion more beloved and more widespread among the dark places of the world. It is for reasons like these that Queen Victoria is so beloved by millions of subjects; and to day, whether at the festive board, or at public celebrations, at home or abroad, on land or on sea, Britons will raise the loyal and affectionate cry of "God Save the Queen," with greater force and fervor than ever before.

W. M. Bush farmed a piece of land this season at Walkerton. He sowed it in oats and when threshed he had by him measurement 500 bushels. On putting them through the fanning mill, however the oats all evaporated except 15 bushels. In other words to 15 bushels of oats he had 485 bushels of chaff, and he has concluded that farming don't pay.

The most closely united, powerful and wealthy trade in America is the United States Brewers' Association. Within the control of the membership of this association there is at least three hundred million dollars, which is practically united in one immense capital for the growth, advancement and protection of the brewing interests of the country.

A Million Gold Dollars

Would not bring happiness to the person suffering with dyspepsia, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured many thousands of cases of this disease. It tones the stomach, regulates the bowels and puts all the machinery of the system in good working order. It creates a good appetite and gives health strength and happiness.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

SCOTCH TOWN.

Thrashing is about wound up in this vicinity. Pease being the only crop that is yielding satisfactory.

Mr. Donald Black and Mrs. Donald McInnis were on a tour visiting friends in the vicinity of Collingwood last week and report a fine country and business booming in all lines of trade.

Miss M. F. McLellan has returned home from a week's visit with friends in Chesley.

In reply to your writer from Maple Grove regarding the tobacco cure we are sorry we cannot inform our friends of his burgh how it works as we are not subject to using tobacco and did not have the pleasure of giving it a trial. We simply made the purchase for some friends who may be in need. We also have some corn cure that we'll recommend if you are in need of any of those cures. Mike, just come down, it won't cost you a cent. No doubt it will give you satisfaction.

We congratulate Mr. John McDougall in securing a position as guard in the Toronto Asylum. John will be much missed by old and young particularly the fair sex.

Miss Mary F. McMillan has been suffering from dropsy for some time. Drs. Jamieson and Cowan performed an operation on her last week and she is much relieved since being tapped. We hope she may soon recover.

Messrs. Jno. and Dan Campbell, of Pittsburg, Pa., who has been visiting at the old home in Pomona, paid friends in our town a brief visit before returning. Miss Kate McLellan, from Toronto, accompanied them.

The event of the season took place at Archie McMillan's thrashing night in the line of a jollification which lasted all night. John Morrison and D. Black acted their part well. Alex. McMillan was manager.

Mr. M. K. Beeton and his mother are back from Toronto to remain a while. Their many old friends are much pleased to meet them.

Mr. R. J. McMillan, from Oak Park farm, Paris, arrived on Saturday evening to attend the Scotch Town picnic and spend a few days at the old home. Mr. Mack looks well and is still one of the boys. The Review is a weekly visitor of his and is much pleased to see home news so frequently in its columns, which is the same as a letter to him from his beloved Scotch Town.

ALEXANDER McDONALD,

Dated July 16th 1896.

WEDDING BELLS

On the 23rd September the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McRae, Irish Lake was the scene of a lovely gathering of youth and beauty. The occasion was the marriage of their daughter Maggie to Mr. Wm. Noble, of Toronto, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. D. McLeod at the Church, the company then driving home to dinner, and an evening's enjoyment. The bride was attired in silver gray trimmed with white silk and pearl to match. The bridesmaid, her sister Lizzie, appeared to great advantage in a dress of fawn trimmed with blue silk and cut with intermixed with a sprinkling of diamond; and flowers to match. The groomsmen were Mr. Norman Campbell of Pomona.

The following presents testify to the esteem in which the bride is held: 2 plush Parlor Chairs, Black Oak Rocking chair, Oak Centre table, 2 Bedroom chairs, Silver Cruet stand, Handsome Marble Clock, 2 Parlor lamps, dozen Silver Table Spoons, Crystal Lemonade set, 2 China Toilet sets, 2 China Fruit stands, Gold Brooch, China Teapot, Cut Glass Butter Dish, Crystal Fruit Stand, Set Smoothing Irons, 6 Table Cloths, 2 dozen Table Napkins, 2 doz. Towels.

After a night's amusement part of the guests accompanied the happy pair to Markdale station whence they went to the Queen City and other places on their honeymoon. They will eventually settle in Niagara. The Review sends best wishes.

AMERICAN EYES.

It is not strange that some of the leading American newspapers are wondering how it is possible to publish so large and so excellent a paper as the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal for one dollar a year. It must be the enormous circulation of the Family Herald and Weekly Star that enables its publishers to issue it at the price. Each issue of the Family Herald and Weekly Star contains one hundred and twenty-eight full columns and by actual count what each subscriber to it gets in one year is equal to the contents of fifty bound volumes, each volume having two hundred and fifty pages, and such valuable matter, too. Every line that goes into the Family Herald and Weekly Star must cost money, for its publishers seem to act as if they would have none but the best. We would be afraid to estimate what the publishers of the Family Herald must expend each year to sustain the high reputation of their paper. Its great circulation tells the story.
