

How I Won My Wife

It was getting toward nine o'clock when my attention was attracted to a pretty little girl who was tripping across the street. Just as she reached the curb she slipped on a patch of ice and fell heavily. It took me about half a second to reach the little woman and pick her up. She was shaken by the fall, though not injured, and I had to support her for a moment. Then she went her way.

I had tramped up and down my beat three or four times when a bareheaded cash boy ran out of one of the big stores and yelled at me:

"Come, quick! The manager has caught a shoplifter!"

"Ah, officer," said the manager, who was a mere business machine. "I am glad you have come. One of our clerks at the lace counter discovered that a valuable piece of lace had been stolen and gave the alarm. This woman hurried away from the counter. The lace was found in an outside pocket of her cloak. This is the piece on the desk here."

There was a sudden movement on the part of the woman. She snatched her handkerchief from her face, extended her right arm and finger, which shook with rage, and, turning her blazing eyes upon the business machine, she fairly screamed:

"This false! I am no thief!"

She was the black-eyed little girl that I had picked up scarcely half an hour before.

Then she told me her little story. She was an orphan and had been brought up by an old aunt in the country. About six months before this her aunt had died, and she came on to the city and turned her hand to lacemaking, and had been able to support herself decently since then.

She said she had stepped into the shop to make some small purchases and was arrested when walking away. She protested that she did not know how the lace came to be found in her pocket.

I explained the case to the sergeant at the station and got his permission for her to sit in a chair in the office instead of occupying a cell all night. Somehow I couldn't get the sorrowful look of those eyes out of my mind, and I couldn't sleep, and when daylight came time hung on a peg until court time came. I walked around thinking over the case, trying to arrive at some solution favorable to the girl.

Of course when we got to court, Minnie—that was her name—was convicted in one-two-three order. She made no statement—just stood dazed like—and the judge held her for trial in the court above.

As they led the girl away she was the picture of death. I gave her a nod of encouragement, but she returned it with a look that said as plainly as words could have said: "My heart is broken."

I had questioned her closely as to the appearance of the people who had stood near her at the lace counter. She could remember none save one flashily-dressed woman who had attracted her attention because of a remarkable mutilation of one of her ears, as if a piece had been cut out in a triangular form. I persuaded the superintendent to grant me leave of absence for a couple of days and went to work. I overhauled the pictures at the office and gazed hard and earnestly at the features of every female crook in the rogues' gallery, but I could not find the one I was after.

At last I fell to reading the remarks under the picture of a bold, handsome face, and was knocked all into a cocked hat by the words, "Has a triangular piece cut out of the left ear."

I had a long talk with a detective friend of mine, and after a while he was able to place the woman and told me where she most frequented.

All that day and nearly all the next I was on the look out for that lady, and was despairing. I touched her some woman every past me, actually brushing against me with her seakskin cloak.

I glanced up and fairly started, for one of her ears was mutilated just as the girl and the note in the office had described.

The woman swept on and I followed. She entered the very store where I had arrested Minnie, and she was looking at the lace counter where the lace was stolen and began examining the stock. And then, selecting a trifle, she paid for it and turned to go.

I was in a quandary. But I was determined to make an effort and run the risk of making a serious mistake. Stepping up to her, I touched her shoulder and whispered, "Come with me. I want you a moment," at the same time looking straight into her eyes.

Every drop of blood left the woman's face. She fairly trembled for an instant, and then she looked back defiantly and went with me.

We had moved but a step or two in the direction of the bookkeeper's den, where the girl had been searched three days before, when something struck my feet. I stooped and picked up a bundle of lace. The woman had dropped it. I was right—I had found my thief.

Seeing that she was caught, the shoplifter owned up that she had stolen the piece of lace. When accused of the other theft, for which I wanted her, she confessed to that, too. My, but wasn't that a grateful little woman! She just ran and placed her arms around my neck and kissed me. I was kind of taken back, for although I rather enjoy kissing, I don't like 'em many witnesses.

I married her two weeks afterward, and the business machine gave her a $250 outfit, and was glad to get out of the awkward fix at that price.

A MINISTER'S STORY.

THE PAINFUL EXPERIENCE OF REV. C. H. BACKHUS.

For Five Months he was Helpless and Endured Agonizing Pains—Could neither Rise Up Nor Sit Down Without Aid—He Tells How he Found a Cure.

From the Tilsburg Observer. The Rev. C. H. Backhus is a resident of Bayham township, Elgin county, Ont., and there is probably no person in the county who is better known or more highly esteemed. He is a minister of the United Brethren Church. He also farms quite extensively, superintending the work and doing quite a share of it himself despite his advanced age. But he was not always able to do this, as he can today, as a few years ago he underwent an illness that many feared would terminate his life. To a reporter who recently had a conversation with him the rev. gentleman gave the particulars of his illness and cure, with permission to make the statement public. The statement is as follows:—About three years ago he was taken ill and the doctor who was called in pronounced his trouble an attack of la grippe. He did not appear to get any better and a second doctor was called in, but with no more satisfactory results, so far as a renewal of health was concerned. Following the la grippe pains of an excruciating nature located themselves in his body. He grew weaker and weaker until at last he was perfectly helpless. He could not sit down nor rise from a sitting posture without assistance and when with this assistance he gained his feet he could hobble but a few steps when he was obliged to be put in a chair again.

For five months these agonizing pains were endured. But at last relief so long delayed came. A friend urged him to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He yielded to the advice and had not been taking them long when the longed-for relief was noticed coming. He could move more easily, and the stiffness and pains began to leave his joints. The continued use of the pills for some time longer and the cure was complete. Seeing Mr. Backhus now it would be difficult to think of him as the crippled and helpless man of the previous days. Mr. Backhus is now past his 80th year, but as he said, "by the aid of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I am as able as those ten years younger."

I tell you I laid forty rods of rail fence this year. I am glad to add my testimony in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills strike at the root of the disease, driving it from the system and restoring the patient to health and strength. In cases of paralysis, spinal troubles, locomotor ataxia, sciatica, rheumatism, erysipelas, scrofulous troubles, etc., these pills are superior to all other treatment. They are also a specific for the troubles which makes the lives of so many weary men a burden, and speedily restore the men a hearty glow of health to pale and salivary cheeks. Men broken down by overwork, worry or excesses, will find in Pink Pills a certain cure. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail postpaid, at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y. Beware of imitations and substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

A HOPEFUL CIRCUMSTANCE. I think, said young Mrs. Torkins, that we will like the new servant better than we did the other. "Has a triangular piece cut out of the left ear."

She carries a smaller basket to and from her home.

A CASE OF DIABETES. No Help From Medical Men—Suffered for Many Years—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

North Bruce, Feb. 22 (Special)—An old and well known settler in this Township named Thomas Brooks, who lives on lots 7 and 8 in the 14th concession is rejoicing with his neighbors over his recent recovery, and he said: "I was cured by using twenty-four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and as nothing else ever helped me I say they saved my life."

"I had tried all the doctors of this locality and was treated for Diabetes hoping and suffering for years. From reading of cures I determined to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and I must use would have considered them reasonable at ten dollars a box."

PAINTED LI'S PICTURE. The lady portrait painter who has been entrusted with the execution of a likeness of his excellency, Li Hung Chang, and whose indemnity has, until now, been shrouded in mystery, turns out to be none other than Miss Gushied and extremely clever artist Miss Ethel Mortlock, whose charming house in Sloane street, London, is so popular a resort of painters, litterateurs, and famous people generally. The picture is now about half finished, and stands in the middle of Miss Mortlock's studio, framed in massive gold. It is an enormous canvas, the portrait being in his robes of state—which, of course, includes the celebrated yellow jacket, of which he is deprived when he loses a battle of things go wrong, but which is returned to him with added glory when some successful coup on his part again endears him to the Emperor.

The background of the royal purple in which his soul delights. On his head is the famous cap with the red knob and peacock's feathers and a crimson plush robe, lined with blue, completes his picturesque and magnificent appearance. The picture is a delightful quizzical and dryly humorous one, and Miss Mortlock says it is the one usually worn by the great viceroys.

SIXTY-THIRD YEAR

BRITISH AMERICA ASSURANCE COMPANY.

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders was held at the Company's office, Toronto, on Thursday, 18th February.

The President, Hon. Geo. A. Cox, occupied the chair, and Mr. P. H. Simpson was appointed to act as Secretary. read the following to act as Secretary.

ANNUAL REPORT: The Directors have pleasure in submitting herewith the financial statement of the Company for the year ending 31st December, 1896.

The premium income shows a moderate decrease compared with the figures of the preceding year. This is attributable to the reduction in insurable values consequent upon the disturbance in general business caused by the Presidential election in the United States, and to the reduced volume of business transacted in the Marine and Inland Departments.

The profit shown on the year's business is $61,271. The amount of the two yearly dividends at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, the Reserve Fund of the Company has been increased to $528,283.84. The amount estimated as necessary to cover liability on unexpired policies has, owing to the smaller business transacted, been reduced $11,101.41, and the net surplus over capital and all liabilities has increased for the year of $19,873.20.

The Directors desire to express their appreciation of the services of the officers and agents of the Company during the past year.

SUMMARY OF FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

Premium income, less re-insurances $1,482,080.94
Interest Account 43,624.04
Total income $1,525,704.98
Losses incurred 950,183.33
Expenses of management, including commission, salaries, taxes, and other charges. 514,249.90
Dividends to shareholders 52,500.00
Reserve fund $ 528,283.84
Cash capital 750,000.00

Security to policy-holders—$1,278,883.84
The President, in moving the adoption of the report, said:—I desire to add a few words concerning the business of the Company during the past year. The three policies of the past year have been the honor of submitting to the shareholders have in each case shown an increase in the premium income of the Company, and the reports have been a falling off—though not a serious one—some $25,000, as compared with the business of the year 1895.

As you are aware, a large proportion of our revenue is derived from our agencies in the United States, and I need scarcely remind you that during the closing months of 1896 the disturbance in the political and financial affairs had a marked effect upon the general trade of the country. Owing to the nature of the main questions at issue between the two political parties the recent Presidential election, business interests were affected to probably a greater extent than in any previous contest.

JUDGE AND JURY. An exchange tells a story of a well-known juror who is noted for his fondness for conveying in his charges to jurors, in his own opinions in regard to the merits of the case in hand. Recently in giving such a charge, he expressed his views very plainly, but to the surprise of the jury remained out for some hours.

HE thought that he could trifle with disease. He was run down in health, felt tired and worn out, complained of dizziness, biliousness, backaches and headaches. His liver and kidneys were out of order. He thought to get well by dosing himself with cheap remedies. And then came the ending. He fell a victim to Bright's disease! The money he ought to have invested in a safe, reliable remedy went for a tombstone.

THE ONLY STANDARD REMEDY in the world for kidney and liver complaints. It is the only remedy which physicians universally prescribe. It is the only remedy that is backed by the testimony of thousands whom it has relieved and cured.

Scott's Emulsion

Is the Standard

emulsion the world over. There is not a man, woman or child who is run down, or emaciated, or has weak lungs, that Scott's Emulsion will not benefit. When you ask for it you will likely be told by the druggist that he has an emulsion "just as good." It is not true. No emulsion is as good.

FAILURE IMPOSSIBLE. When Nervine—nerve pain cure—is applied. It matters not of how long standing, its penetrating and pain subduing power is such that relief is almost instantaneous. Nervine is a nerve pain cure. This statement expresses all. Try it and be convinced.

First artist (patronizingly)—Van Dike is a good fellow, but he never will be finished painter." Second Artist—"No; all of his figures are entirely too life-like."

Itching, Burning Skin Diseases Cured For 25 Cents. Dr. Agnew's Ointment relieves in one day and cures letter, salt rheum, piles, scald head, eczema, barbers' itch, ulcers, blotches and all eruptions of the skin. Angel cake, said the married man, who refused to permit the use of his name, is so called because it would require an angel to eat it without supposing profanity.

In this age of adulteration, it is refreshing to find the quality and purity put forward as the strong points of any article that enters largely into home consumption. This is recognized the world over as the salient feature of "Salada" Ceylon Tea, and admitted by analysts and medical men.

CONSUMPTION OF AMBER. In Dantzic alone during last year nearly 100 tons of amber were turned to the smoker's purpose in pipes and cigarette holders. This, of course, is a member of the familiar yellow variety, Sicilian amber, on the other hand, shows a wonderful variety of tints, from ruby red to turquoise blue, as may be seen in the private collection of Arsenius Buffum, an American of fortune, who has made colored amber his hobby, has written a book about them and has recently been on a visit to London, carrying with him a number of his finest specimens.

ACCOUNTED FOR. Clara: Isn't your love for him very sudden? Maud: Well, his rich aunt died very unexpectedly.
