

Newspaper Laws.

We call the special attention of Postmasters and subscribers to the following synopsis of the newspaper laws:

1. If any person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount whether it be taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until payment is made.
2. Any person who takes a paper from the post office, whether directed to his name or another, or whether he has subscribed or not is responsible for the pay.
3. If a subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the published continues to send, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the post office. This proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

About the House.

SUNDAY COOKING.

In most homes the Sunday dinner is looked forward to as the principal meal of the week, and consequently the housewife is kept busy all Sunday morning preparing a number of extra or fancy dishes. She must necessarily give up church, and when the meal is over and the dishes washed she feels as if a day's work had been done. It may not be just the most satisfactory thing to sit down to very simple Sunday dinner, but one will soon become accustomed to it.

In a home where there is help or when there are one or more daughters who are old enough to help, each one can take turns in making the Sunday dinner. In this way the mother may have her much needed rest and a nice dinner can be prepared. One mother who has two daughters has found this an admirable plan, and she only prepares the dinner every third Sunday. The girls acquire a confidence in themselves and learn considerably. Their mother enjoys these days of rest, and she does not worry or help about the work, either. "Let them learn how," she says, "they cannot always have me with them." And the girls say they enjoy it, too, for they do not cook just what they please.

But the mother with a family of little ones, who never gets a chance for rest on week days needs her Sunday, and if she wants to attend church she cannot prepare a great dinner. There are any number of things which may be prepared on Saturday. Usually the baking is done then and there is fresh bread with biscuits and cakes. A pot of beans is prepared on Saturday afternoon and warmed for Sunday breakfast. The desserts for Sunday are also made on Saturday, and a few that are easily prepared and which are good cold are given below. When fresh fruit is to be obtained, nothing makes nicer dessert and is more quickly prepared. Served with rich cream and sugar any of the berries, peaches or bananas are delicious. Potatoes may be served in a number of ways which only take a short time if partially prepared on Saturday. It is customary to have a roast of some kind for Sunday, but this requires hours of attention. If cold meat is not relished, some kind which may be fried will only take a short time to prepare. Chickens may be partially fried on Saturday so that ten or fifteen minutes on Sunday will finish them. Saturday roasts may be sliced cold for Sunday evening, and the chicken or turkey for a salad may be chopped on Saturday, ready for the dressing on Sunday. There are canned lobster and salmon which may also be enjoyed on Sunday and which are always ready. Soups may be cooked on Saturday also, and reheated for dinner on Sunday. As for fresh vegetables, nothing is so easily prepared as a lettuce salad. The lettuce may be washed and picked over in the morning and left in cold water to keep crisp until needed. Most canned vegetables require only ten or fifteen minutes to cook. Fresh asparagus if tender requires but fifteen minutes and radishes may be cleaned the day before or in the morning.

If the housewife is really desirous of having Sunday for rest she can with a little forethought serve the Sunday dinner in about half an hour from the time she commences to get it. There will then be no overheated tired mother who cannot enjoy what has taken her all morning to prepare. She can have it as early or late as she likes, because it is so easily prepared and reheated. There is no roast to spoil from being over-done, and no elaborate dishes which must be served as soon as ready for the table. She will have more time to spend with her husband who is away every other day, and if she chooses to go to church or to visit a friend, she has nothing to worry or detain her.

A few desserts which may be made on Saturday and served cold for Sunday dinner are herewith given:

Banana Cream.—Two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch; four tablespoonfuls cold milk; two tablespoonfuls sugar; one pint of boiling milk and a pinch of salt. Make the cornstarch smooth in the cold milk; pour it into the boiling milk, stirring constantly until it thickens. Add the sugar and salt and also some kind of flavor. Pour into a mold to cool. Serve cold with cream or fruit juice.

Cocanut Pudding.—Put a pint of milk into a saucepan; moisten three tablespoonfuls of corn-starch in a little cold milk and add to the boiling milk; beat the whites of four eggs to a stiff froth, add a small cupful of sugar to the pudding, with the eggs; stir over the fire for two or three minutes, add two cupfuls of grated cocanut flavor with vanilla, and turn into a mold to harden. Serve cold, with vanilla sauce.

Banana Cream.—This is a simple dessert. Peel the fruit and rub it through a coarse sieve, add as much cream as you have fruit, and a pinch of salt. To one pint of this mixture put two ounces of powdered sugar. Beat this with a whip until it is light and frothy. Pile the mixture in glasses, and sprinkle blanched and powdered almonds over the top. In the center of each place a candied cherry.

Bananas and Whipped Cream.—Pare and slice thin half a dozen bananas; lay them in a pretty dish, and sprinkle with half a cupful of powdered sugar and four tablespoonfuls of orange juice. Let them stand in a cold place an hour or more, and serve with whipped cream.

Rhubarb Blane Mince.—Prepare rhubarb as for sauce, stew until in a pulp, sweeten and thicken with corn-starch which has been dissolved in cold water. The amount of depend upon the juiciness of the rhubarb. Pour into moulds while hot. Serve when cold with sweetened cream or whipped cream. This is delicious.

Fruit Jelly is delicious and is always served cold. Make as much jelly from gelatin as is desired and flavor it with lemon. In the bottom of a wet mold put a layer of sliced fruit, either bananas, berries or oranges and pour the gelatin over. This may be made in layers if desired, but each layer of jelly must be allowed to stiffen before more fruit is put on. Serve with cream. Directions for making the jelly are on every box of gelatin. It makes a nice dessert and is quickly prepared.

A STRANGE BOAT, INDEED.

FOR WHICH ITS INVENTOR HAS GREAT EXPECTATIONS.

It is now under construction at the Poison Shipyard, Toronto—Knapp's Steamship is intended to Roll Over the Water.

The strange craft now under course of construction at the Poison shipyards, Toronto, known as the Knapp boat, is attracting more than local attention, and now that the experiment is nearing its climax the interest in the success or failure of the project is becoming intense.

The inventor of the idea, Mr. F. A. Knapp, barrister, of Prescott, Ont., has rosette hopes of the ultimate great utility of his strange undertaking, and what perhaps is more to the point, many prominent marine engineers and shipbuilders are coming around to his way of thinking, and are beginning to realize that the scheme may be quite feasible. On the other hand, many equally clever men in this particular line do not hesitate to say that nothing but failure can attend Mr. Knapp's project.

A ROLLER BOAT.

The boat is indeed a strange and utterly unconventional looking craft. The idea of its construction and its motion is entirely foreign to all present methods of ship construction, and this radical departure from the ordinary may possibly account for some of the prophecies of failure.

The boat now building will consist of three gigantic steel cylinders, the outer one being 100 feet in length by 20 feet in diameter. Within it is another cylinder of the same length, but only 12 feet in diameter. These two cylinders are to be strongly braced together to form a gigantic paddle wheel. On the outside one paddles will be placed as in a paddle wheel of ordinary dimensions.

TO RUN ON BALL BEARINGS.

The third cylinder will be placed within the other two, and will be but a few inches smaller than the second one.

The intention is that ball bearings will be placed between these second and third cylinders, and the two outer ones be made to revolve at a high rate of speed by means of hundred or fifty horse-power engines placed within the third, which of course will rotate stationary.

The boat will therefore be virtually a huge paddle wheel rolling over the water, instead of through it, with the passengers, engines and steering apparatus in the centre of the wheel. The steering gear will consist of steel plates, on the lee board principle, that will be suspended by chains from the engines will be communicated to the outer cylinders by means of friction.

FASTER THAN A TRAIN.

The inside cylinder will be open at both ends, and the revolving portion of the vessel will slope upward from the water line, thus obviating any danger of snipping seas. This revolving wheel will only draw about a foot to a foot and a half of water, but it is expected that Mr. Knapp will develop a speed that will enable it to cross the Atlantic in forty-eight hours.

For a long time after Mr. Knapp conceived the idea of a cylinder boat he was unable to interest anyone in his scheme, everyone declaring it impracticable and chimerical. Finally Mr. George Goodwin, the wealthy Government contractor, of Ottawa, became interested in the scheme, and acting on his orders, the Polson Company are constructing the strange craft at a cost of $10,000.

READY AUGUST 1ST.

This boat is being built as an experiment for use on Lake Ontario only, but if it proves a success a monster roller, 750 feet in length and 150 feet in diameter, will be built for ocean traffic.

It is expected that this present boat will be launched in about two weeks, and will be ready for a trial trip about August 1st. The result of this most interesting experiment is being watched forward to with considerable interest, and every detail of construction and progress will be eagerly watched by all who take any interest in marine engineering or steamboat building.

YOU ARE A VICTIM!

Medical statistics prove that eighty out of every hundred are tainted with Catarrh. Are you one of the eighty? Foul breath, pains over the eyes, drooping in the throat and headaches, denote it. Have you these symptoms? Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder never disappoints in a cure.

"For years I was a victim of chronic catarrh. I had tried all kinds of cures, and had been treated by numbers of physicians, but no cure was effected until I had procured and used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. The first application gave me almost instant relief, and in an incredibly short time I was absolutely cured from this distressing and disgusting malady." James Headley, Dundee, N. Y.

A MINIATURE BALACLAVA.

U One of the principal episodes in the fighting at Valastino was a mad charge made by a body of Turkish cavalry numbering about fifty. While the Turkish infantry stormed the heights from the village side to regain a position they had lost, the cavalry swept around the valley and charged the enemy in flank. It was magnificent. "I was for fifteen years a great admirer from heart disease, had smothering spells, palpitation, pain in left side and swelled ankles. Twenty physicians treated me, but I got no relief. I used Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. One dose relieved me inside of 30 minutes. Several bottles cured me."

SHIRKED THE TROUBLE.

An amusing view of matrimony is that presented in a story told of two Scotchmen:

A country laird at his death left his property in equal shares to his two sons, who continued to live most contentedly together for many years. At last, however, one of them said to the other:

"I am getting to be auld man; you take a wife, and when I die, you'll get my share of the land."

"No, na, James," said the other; "you're the youngest and the mainest lively; you take a wife, and when I die you'll get my share, mon."

"That's always the way wi' you, Tam," said the first, "when there's aye fash or trouble, I must take it all; you'll do nothing."

UNCONSCIOUS HUMOR.

An Englishman's Bad Break—A Case Where Unconscious Humor Was Not Appreciated.

Debate in the British House of Commons is ordinarily conducted in a low, conversational tone. Not long ago a burly military member, who was not accustomed to public speaking, delivered an excited harangue on the exile of the Guards to Gibraltar, and nearly emptied the House by the violence of his shouting.

It was like the breath of a roaring blast furnace, and every word seemed to crackle with explosive energy. Members in the benches were at first amused by his unnecessary fervor, and finally wearied by his noisy, ear-splitting declamation. Drawing himself up to his full height and speaking in tones which were fairly deafening, he shouted:

"If I may be allowed to whisper in the ear of the government—"

He was not allowed to go on. The members burst into a loud guffaw of laughter, which drowned his voice and seriously disconcerted him. When it was perceived from his look of astonishment that he was unconscious of the real cause of amusement, they laughed again more heartily than they had laughed before.

Unconscious humor is not always appreciated. When Herr Rickhart, not long ago, turned contemptuously toward the members of the House and cried out: "We hear nothing upon the ministerial benches, nothing but profound silence!" no member moved a muscle, seriously disconcerted him. When it was perceived from his look of astonishment that he was unconscious of the real cause of amusement, they laughed again more heartily than they had laughed before.

A God-Sent Blessing.

Mr. B. F. Wood, of Easton, Pa., was a great sufferer from organic heart disease. He never expected to be well again, but Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart was his good angel, and he lives today to tell it to others, hearing him: "I was for fifteen years a great sufferer from heart disease, had smothering spells, palpitation, pain in left side and swelled ankles. Twenty physicians treated me, but I got no relief. I used Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. One dose relieved me inside of 30 minutes. Several bottles cured me."

When is a Woman Old?

This query on my mirror hung:
"When is a woman old?"
It clings to me and long has hung.
The answer must be told.

Ah, some are old before half way.
And some are never old.
For these but laugh life's cares away.
While those both fret and scold.

And yet it is no easy task.
However well controlled,
To answer one, if she should ask.
"When is a woman old?"

The graceful ones are all still young.
And those whose are old
Who try to make themselves look young
When age has taken hold.

The oldest ones of all the old
Are those who would look young.
For they will always fret and scold
When age's sign is hung.

As long as women cling to youth
And disregard their age
They never can be old, forsooth.
Their youth fills up the page.

Yes, some are old before their time—
Old age usurps their youth—
And some are young beyond their prime
Unless they hide the truth.

UNLIKE ANY OTHER MEDICINE,

POINTS THE WAY TO PERFECT HEALTH

South American Nerve. The Great Health Restorer of the Century. Sickness Cannot Cope With It. Has Cured the Worst Cases on Record. Cures at the Nerve Centres and Thus Cures Permanently. A Wonderful Specific in All Cases of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Nervousness and General Debility. Has No Equal as a Spring Medicine. There is a great deal of uncertainty in the methods adopted to remove disease. Doctors are not free from this kind of thing themselves. The poor patient has to put up with a good deal of experimenting. The discoverer of South American Nerve takes two sections of view of life to pass pranks of this kind. He does not think that these human bodies of ours should be fooled with. He has recognized that they are subject to disease, but, by scientific methods, he has learned that just as the watch is to be put in perfect repair only when the main-spring is kept in running order, so the health of the individual, he remains in perfect health only when the nerve centres are kept healthy and strong.

What disease is more distressing than indigestion or dyspepsia? Some simple remedy may be given to cause relief for the moment. Nerve is an indisputably successful remedy for the worst cases of indigestion, because it reaches the source of all stomach troubles—the nerve centres. Indigestion exists because the vital forces have become diseased and are weakened. Nerve builds up the nerve centres, from which come these forces, removes the causes of indigestion, and then builds up the health completely.

How many systems are run down through nervousness. A stimulant may give ease, but it will not cure nervous troubles. Nerve has cured more desperate cases of nervousness than any other medicine anywhere. And it does so for the same reason that it cures indigestion. The nerve centres are strengthened, or there would be no recovery of nervousness. Nerve rebuilds and restores the nerve tissues, and hence it restores the nervous powers in diseases of this kind.

In the spring of the year the strongest suffer from general debility. The blood, through neglect, has become impoverished, and the whole system gets out of order. We speak of it as a spring medicine. Nerve restores the exhausted vital forces that have led to this tired, don't-care, played-out, miserable condition. No one can take a bottle of Nerve at this season of the year without feeling better. The moral is plain, simple and readily understood. If you would not trade with disease, then you will take South American Nerve, which will not trade with you.
