TWO WEEKS IN PARRY SOUND.

AFTER THE FLEET-FOOTED DEER.

Mr. W. E. McAllister as a Hunter.

On Monday, we were up, breakfast over and off for the same ground with the same packs and same guns, not empty. Frank felt somewhat better as he felt in his bones we were going to get a deer, and Frank's bones were about right for we had not gone over a mile in the bush when Gip and Cap left us and in no time out rushed a fine doe the dogs and she so mixed up that I thought there were two deer, we were taken so by surprise that neither of us got a shot. Says Frank, "that's a good one," and sure enough before night we had a fine buck hung up about a mile from camp. We came in to camp tired, but in good shape, we had a capital supper of heart and liver, Frank said I was no tenderfoot and a splendid cook. From that on we lived sumptuously. Tuesday I went alone over to where we had left our deer, the dogs were put out, I thought they would bring one that way, and sure enough I had only reached the spot when up they came with a small doe, I fired and the deer stopped dead still, but only for a moment when she was off with Gip and Cap close upon her, I had missed, but must have got pretty close to have brought her to a standstill. We went back to camp a little disappointed, but with a good appetite, and had a grand supper of Deer heart and liver.

Wednesday we had a very exciting chase and killed a fine doe, Gip brought her past us going like the wind, we gave her a broadside which she never heeded, soon Gip came past giving no tongue but in less than five minutes we heard her give tongue, says Frank, "she has her coin on." We rushed on following the sound in about a quarter of a mile we came up to them fighting but dog and deer so mixed up together we could not use our guns. Soon the deer saw us and away with Gip close upon her. Gip soon brought her to bay and we came up and soon had her down, but what a fight. They are great fighters but with these dogs once you draw blood and they never give the deer up. They would go through fire and water. Frank was more than satisfied, we had two fine deer and there was but two coupons attached to my license. The weather was rather against this kind of hunting by this time. In the meantime we had got the first one in. We now had the two hanging near our camp and I can assure you it's a grand sight for a tenderfoot especially when they are for him and no one else. And now comes the work, to get our deer out to the station some 8 miles, but this was overcome by Tom and I leaving home about 6 a. m. on Friday morning with a one-horse wooden sleigh, we got to the camp about 8 a. m. and after loading up we started reaching home about 11 a. m., had dinner and then off for the station after saying good-bye to my kind friends. I left that night or rather the next morning at 1 a. m. reaching Durham on the 2 p. m. train Saturday, having got all the law allows and having had a most enjoyable time so much so that if all is well I will go up again next fall.

POULTRY FOR THE BRITISH MARKET

A very timely and practical bulletin has just been issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture on the dressing, packing, and shipping of poultry for British markets. There is no doubt, but that a large trade in dressed poultry for the British markets can be developed if only proper methods are adopted in dressing and shipping. The quality of the poultry must also be good, and when the trade has developed somewhat, a regular supply must be kept up during the season. When a customer is obtained, he should get his supply regularly. If this is done, he will learn to depend upon this one source for his supply, and if the quality is the best he will have no excuse for seeking a supply from any other source.

The bulletin deals more particularly with the shipment of turkeys. Regarding the prospects for developing this particular line of trade, the bulletin says:

Liver Ills

Like biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, constipation, sour stomach, indigestion are promptly cured by Hood's Pills. They do their work

Hood's Pills

Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. The only Pill to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The exportation of Turkeys from Canada to Great Britain is hardly yet past the experimental stage. Most of the shipments have been sent more as a part of a regular business. One importer of poultry in Great Britain says: "Every body thinks he is qualified to pack and ship poultry; whereas, as much as any other article of food, it requires the skilful handling which can be given only as a result of experience." It will be prudent only for a beginner to send only small trial shipments early in the season, and then open up a trade which can be enlarged as it is found profitable.

If turkeys be prepared, packed, and shipped according to the requirements of the British markets, they will, undoubtedly, meet a good demand, and secure prices equal to those of turkeys imported from France and other continental countries. The price varies from year to year, and also at different times of the year. Wholesale, the range of prices may be from five pence per pound, up to nine pence and over per pound, for the finest quality of birds in the best condition.

Further on it states: The demand is usually good from about the 1st of December to the 1st of March. The reception of poultry in the British market is affected by the condition of the weather much less now than formerly. Cold storage facilities in the several cities of Great Britain enable the handlers to guard against deterioration from mild or soft weather on the arrival of the birds.

For the Christmas trade, birds of large size command a relatively higher price per pound than small ones. Cock turkeys of the largest size should be marketed before Christmas. The demand for hen turkeys continues until March. It then goes on to give specific details as to the manner of killing the birds; how they should be treated immediately before killing; the methods of packing and preparing for shipment. Cleanliness must be observed in every particular, and special attention given to grading the birds and to having those put in a box as near one weight as possible. Instructions are also given as to shipping turkeys in feather.

In reference to the trade in geese and ducks, the bulletin says: Geese are demanded in Great Britain for a longer time after Christmas than is usually the case in markets on this side of the Atlantic. It is not probable that a profitable trade of large volume can be developed in them in the near future. The supply of ducks, chickens, and fowls in Canada is hardly yet sufficient for the demand for the Canadian home trade.

The same methods of preparation are advised in regard to chickens and fowls as with dressed turkeys, and altogether the bulletin is a very valuable one indeed, and should be in the hands of every poultry breeder and dealer in the country. Write the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa for a copy.

HOPEVILLE.

Intended for last week.

I have not written you for some time as we have had a very fine fall and our correspondent Tom was kept very busy getting up the turnips as my old people kept me to work.

Our sick people are mostly better in the Dean family, there were three of them down at one time and it was very trying as this is the family whose mother was accidentally shot last summer.

Quite a little improvement in our village this fall. P.M. McKechnie has been moving his house and barn. David Allan improving the house and work-shop know as the McLeach church, H. Allen some improvements and G. McArthur a new roof on his house, Wm. McDonald and Dan McArthur are going to improve some of the weather keeps open unto longer.

Business has been brisk in our village the wagon shop, the three blacksmith shops have all been very busy. Last but not least, our shoe-maker McDonald has his brother working for him and they have more than they can do. They keep at it on late in the night.

Some of our people went down to Cedarville to McKechnie's shooting match last Friday 19th.

Church matters are not improving here since the service was taken from the Orange Hall to Allen's shop, it is dwindling down small and the Christian Endeavor we hear has ceased to meet. The people are supplied with students.

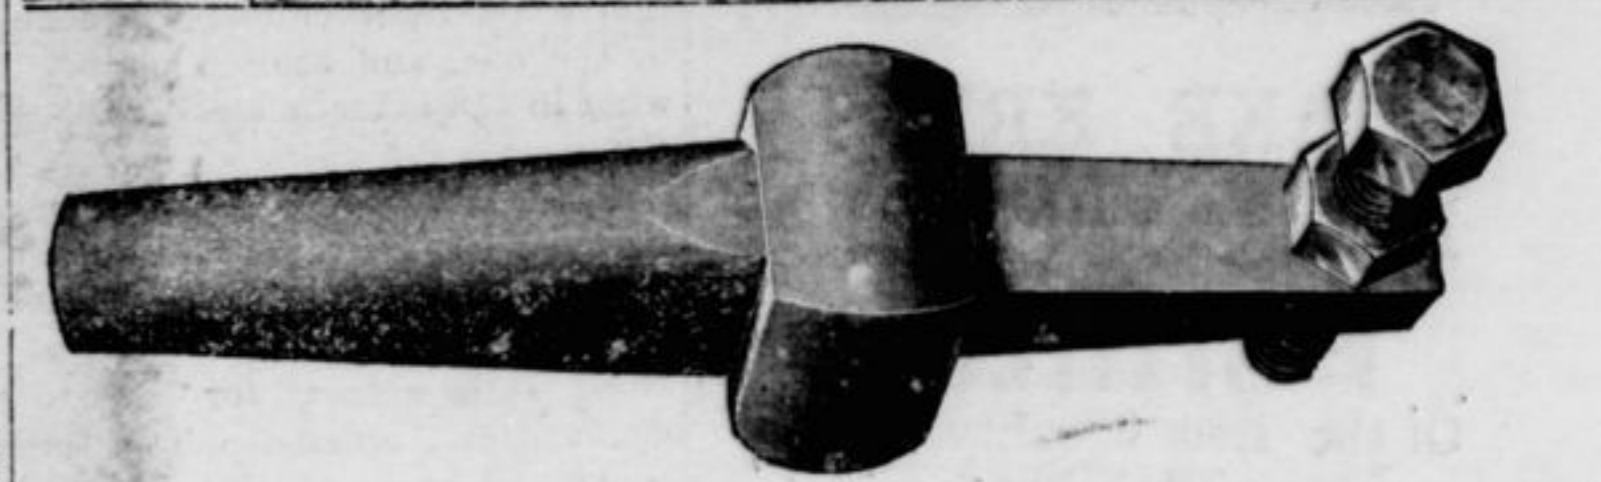

Mrs. Mills, daughter of Mrs. McDonald came back from North Michigan. She prefers to live here, her husband is intending to return in the spring.

Jas. McMurdo has rented a farm at Ventry and will move there this winter.

Isaac W. McArdle was home on Sunday at his parents.

There is some talk of reviving up the Patrons again. Will the coming election have anything to do with this move? Tom.
