Weil Mr. Editor, I suppose you will be beginning to think that your Orchard Scribe is dead, but such is not the case as we find that after five or six weeks pretty stiff work, that there is considerable life in us yet, so please excuse our negligence.

We congratulate you Mr, Fditor on the marked improvement of your newsy paper both as regards its form, and also the change of the "inside" outside, as the local news are generally the first sought after.

The country is beginning to look very beautiful, the forests in a day or two will be clothed in their beauty of green. The orchards in blossom. Everything looks prosperous, and we predict that the "farmer's day is coming bye and bye."
