BUTCH CASSIDY AND HIS FIVE HUNDRED OUTLAWS.

Hundreds of Miles of Territory at Their Mercy-They Are the Terrors of Four Western American States.

The Governors of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, and Idaho, recently met in conference to devise means for executing the notorious Butch Cassidy and his gang, who for years have rendered life and paperty unsafe in certain sections grand chief occupation of cattle-stealor three itur States.

"Butch and his band are the cutgrowth of the rustlers of six years ago Since then they have broadened their field, and increased their numbers. It is no idle boast to say that the leaders of this notorious band has 500 men at beck and call. Their depredations are upon a scale never before reached in the history of frontier crime. All the conditions are favorable to them. They know every foot of the vast territory in which they operate, taking in, as it does, the wildest and most inacceswith frontier life in its rough phases.

The forces are sub-divided into five bands, each controlled by its own lead- around a sharp point of rocks, they tribesmen that at no time was there er, with Cassidy as the supreme pow- heard the sharp command. It is not definitely known in just which state the Brown's Park camp lies, but it is thought to be across the line in Colorado. The five camps form a, chain extending for hundreds of miles. Between these posts communication is maintained by a regular system of couriers and cipher dispatches, facilitating the cooperation of two or more bands when an enterprise of more than usual magnitude is undertaken.

These bands are composed of men of the most reckless and desperate character, long accustomed to deeds of orime. Whenever a murder is committed in the mountain states or a convict escapes from a penitentiray the criminal flees to the nearest of these retreats, where he is safe from pursuit. In this manner the ranks of the bandits have been recruited up to a strength conservatively estimated at 500. If a victim resist, or an officer pursues murder is regarded as a professional duty, to be cheerfully performed, but they are not given to wanton slaughter. In several instances foolhardy officers who have invaded their strongholds have been disarmed, dismounted and sent home.

An instance of this kind occurred just after the raid of the coal company at Price. Two deputies traced Cassidy and Ferguson to their lair at "Robbers' Roost." They were fully 24 hours behind, and their approach was known long before they arrived at the narrow trail leading up into the rendezvous. Cassidy was in a jovial mood and he
