THROUGH HIS CHURCH

WATERLOO LUTHERAN UNIVERSITY

Participation in the Women's Auxiliary is a two-way street of creative experience. Membership offers you:

1. An opportunity to support the only Lutheran university in Canada.
2. Fellowship with women, young and old, who are united with you in faith, conviction, and service.
3. A program at the forefront in educating Canadian youth.
4. A continuing flow of news about Waterloo Lutheran University.
5. An annual September meeting on campus at which you talk with teachers and students, hear special presentations, and help select new projects for the auxiliary.
6. Invitations to the important university events including concerts, lectures, student shows, dedications and open house programs.

How to Become Part of the Auxiliary:

We invite you to consider membership and to join the Women's Auxiliary of Waterloo Lutheran University. Membership contributions — $2.00 or more a year, as you are willing and able. Fill in the form below and give it to the contact woman in your congregation. If no such person has been appointed, send the form to the auxiliary. If you are already a member, pass along this folder to someone else.

Your local contact woman is:

Mrs. Ed. Bergman

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

WATERLOO LUTHERAN UNIVERSITY

The Women's Auxiliary is an association of women who wish to encourage young people in their studies at Canada's unique university, Waterloo Lutheran University. The auxiliary's purpose is to meet special needs of WLU in providing personalized education in the Christian setting to students of many lands.

The auxiliary carries out its activities with enthusiasm, vitality, and generosity. Among its members are women of every age group, some who studied here, others whose sons and daughters are students and alumni, and others who simply want to help WLU, the university of their church. There are thousands of members throughout eastern Canada.

Some special projects of the auxiliary:

1. Two annual bursaries of $300 each, awarded to one man and one woman, first year students, who qualify through demonstration of need and academic standing.
2. $2,000 or more a year for the purchase of books for the library.
3. $500 to sponsor a private study room in the new library.

4. $1,000 a year toward completion of a $25,000 pledge to provide furnishings for new student residences.

5. Gift certificates of $25 for each seminary graduate to help him continue purchase of theological books.

6. $5,000 gift to the synod's centennial appeal to help in the construction of the new seminary building.

7. More than 200 quilts (64 x 96 in size), blankets, pillow cases, and mattress covers are contributed each year, made by members and friends of the auxiliary.

8. To interpret the university objectives and program and encourage young people to attend.

9. Serve as hostesses at university functions such as convocations, dedications, and parents' days.

10. Encourage others to consider gifts and bequests to the university.

In 53 years the Women's Auxiliary has contributed more than $150,000. Every gift, large or small, is appreciated by the auxiliary and by Waterloo Lutheran University's faculty, staff and students.

Tell the Story to Others!

The full-color sound filmstrip, Willing Hearts and Hands, was produced by the auxiliary to tell the story of its work to young and old so that they too, might join in helping. For a filmstrip and recording, provided without charge, please contact the Office of Information, Waterloo Lutheran University, 75 University Ave. W., Waterloo.

A WORKING ARM OF THE CHURCH

Waterloo Lutheran University is the only Lutheran University in Canada. It is one of 21 universities and colleges of the Lutheran Church in America and one of 50 of all Lutheran church bodies in North America.

Waterloo Lutheran University is a fully accredited university and offers undergraduate and graduate programs for all who qualify academically. It is a working arm of the congregations and is sponsored and supported by the Eastern Canada Synod of the Lutheran Church in America.

Waterloo Lutheran University is part of the church's mission of "in-reach" and "out-reach." It looks to the parishes to send its sons and daughters to its campus to prepare for careers in commerce, industry, government, and professions as well as for the wide range of church vocations, especially the diaconate and the ordained ministry.

The days are past when Lutherans thought of Christian Higher Education as a program only for Lutherans. Today we think of taking the Lutheran witness out into all levels of society — and we recognize that one of the most effective ways is on the university campus. Young people of all faiths, and no faith at all, are welcomed by Waterloo Lutheran University. Together with Lutheran students, they study and learn in the Christian setting, and after wrestling with the deep questions of life, come to conclusions about God's purpose in their lives.

Students of all races and creeds live together in WLU residences; there is no segregation on any ground. Thus, the creative dialogue that begins with Christian teachers is continued in the dormitories, dining hall, lounges, and coffee shop.

Waterloo Lutheran University is grateful for the encouragement and support that comes from our pastors and people. Without the generosity of your prayers and benevolence offerings, WLU could not carry out its unique role as a working arm of the church.
