Famed Canadian Humorist Dave Broadfoot
To Speak Dec. 4 at WLU's Boar's Head Dinner

One of Canada's most celebrated humorists and masters of satire, Dave Broadfoot, will speak Dec. 4 at the annual Boar's Head dinner at Wilfrid Laurier University.

The dinner is modelled on a 600-year-old ritual at Oxford University and will feature a parade of six chefs bearing a boar's head into the university's Theatre-Auditorium where the event will be held. The university choir will sing the Boar's Head carol during the procession and then serenade the revellers later in the program.

Turkey and hot mince pie will be featured on the menu. Tables will be decorated with candles and holly and Christmas carols will be sung. The dinner will be attended by students, faculty and staff of the university.

Sponsor of the event, which ushers in the Christmas season at the university, is the Students Administrative Council. Mary Louise Wittig, Waterloo, is chairman of the dinner committee. Al Forrester, also of Waterloo, will be master of ceremonies.
