Induction ceremony set for
WLU Athletic Hall of Fame

The first 12 members of the Wilfrid Laurier University Athletic Hall of Fame will be inducted this Saturday at an inaugural reception and dinner at the Waterloo Inn.

Master of ceremonies for the event will be Laurier grad Paul Markle, director of publicity for the Toronto Blue Jays baseball team.

The Hall of Fame has been established by the university as it celebrates the 75th anniversary of its founding. All those inducted into the Hall of Fame will have individual photo-engraved plaques displayed in the athletic building.

The first 12 members and their sports are:

David (Tuffy) Knight, former athletic director at Laurier and now director of scouting and player-recruitment for the Toronto Argonauts football team; Jim Reid, Gloucester, football, a graduate of 1979, who now plays for the Ottawa Roughriders of the CFL;
