WATERLOO – The Robert Langen Art Gallery will showcase the talents of on-campus artists during the 23rd annual Laurier art show. The gallery will host an opening reception from 4 to 5 p.m. on Wednesday, March 17 to introduce this year’s display of artwork created by faculty, staff and students.

The exhibition, which runs from March 16 to 27, offers artists in the Laurier community the opportunity to display their work in a non-juried show. In previous years, this exhibition has included paintings, sculptures, stained glass, photography and mixed-media works.

“Every year the show is filled with some amazing talent and an exciting range of artwork,” said manager of cultural affairs Deborah Currie. “There’s a great deal of artistic talent at Laurier, be it in the fine arts department or across campus.”

The show, sponsored by the Laurier bookstore, is an open call, which means that any interested member of the Laurier community can submit artwork. Some of the art will be for sale by the individual artists.

As Wilfrid Laurier’s visual arts centre since 1989, the Robert Langen Art Gallery provides knowledge, stewardship, appreciation and enjoyment of Canadian art and culture to the local community. The gallery is located in the John Aird Centre and is open noon to 5 p.m. Tuesday to Saturday. Admission is free.
