I did have is a married woman of about 50 years of age. This congregation will show a loss of a dozen or more through the year, eight so far through death and four or five through removal to other congregations elsewhere. I am going to discuss the matter over with the Council when we have our next meeting, which will be next week, and see if this state of affairs is to continue, or whether some way can be found to improve the situation. Most of the other pastors have been quite successful this year, as you have seen and will see from reports in the Nova Scotia Lutheran. The Ladies Aid held their annual birthday bag party on Tuesday night. They gave quite an enjoyable entertainment of a humorous or farcical nature and about $85- was brought in by the birthday bag offering. On Good Friday I preached here in the morning and at New Cornwall in the afternoon. Yesterday we held a meeting of the Orphans' Home Board and extended a call to the Rev. C. B. Lindwood to become Housefather of the Home. I think he will accept. In the afternoon I buried a little child at Blockhouse. Monday and Tuesday I drove around giving communion to old people who could not get out to Church. There are a good many such around here and it is custom any for the pastor to do this, and a very good custom I think it is. I have two parishioners that are past 90 and quite a number between 80 and 90. I took Cordeus with me on the trips and he had to drive
