

Our History

In 1910, the Lutheran Church entered into an agreement to establish a Lutheran Seminary. The majority of Lutherans in Ontario lived in the vicinity of Waterloo and Berlin (Kitchener), and Waterloo was selected when its citizens offered a tract of land on the boundary of the town. In 1911 the Evangelical Lutheran Seminary of Canada opened its doors. Facilities for pre-theological education were established in 1914 with courses leading to senior matriculation given in Waterloo College School.

In 1924 the Waterloo College of Arts, providing courses in postsecondary education in a four-year program, was established. In 1925 the Faculty of Arts, under the name of Waterloo College, affiliated with the University of Western Ontario. Waterloo College soon began to offer honours degree programs in the arts.

The affiliation with the University of Western Ontario ended in 1960 when the Seminary obtained a revised charter changing the name of the institution to Waterloo Lutheran University.

On November 1, 1973, Bill 178 was given Royal Assent by the Lieutenant Governor, William Ross Macdonald (a former Chancellor), and Waterloo Lutheran University became Wilfrid Laurier University, one of Ontario's provincially funded universities.

The Convocation Ceremony

Convocation is the most solemn ceremony within the university community. Since their beginnings in the Middle Ages, universities have performed this ceremony in order to grant degrees to their students and also to welcome those students into the community of scholars which has trained them.

The conferring of the degree takes place at the moment when the student is greeted by the Chancellor or the President, or other conferring officers of the university, and the officer says "I admit you."

As an outward sign of his or her new state, the student wears a hood. Each degree within a university has a hood of unique colours and trim in order that the student's status may be recognized—indeed every university guards its own set of hoods from use by any other university.

In order to recognize the nature of this event for the students involved, the university asks that parents and friends of the students participating in this ceremony withhold their applause until all members being admitted to each degree have left the dais. Students are asked to remain in their seats while other graduates receive their degrees.

The Academic Degrees

The academic degree is a title conferred on an individual by a university as recognition of the completion of a course of study or for a certain attainment. In Canada the three stages in higher education are represented by the degrees of bachelor, master and doctor. Wilfrid Laurier University is given the authority to grant degrees by the Wilfrid Laurier University Act.

Historically, the master's degree was the only degree offered. In the Middle Ages it was awarded to those scholars who, after a series of examinations, were found intellectually and morally fit to teach. Although we are accustomed to thinking of the bachelor's degree as the original degree, it was initially used to designate master's students progressing toward their final degree. They were thus novices or 'bachelors,' who were given permission to teach beginning students. The bachelor's degree was subsequently established as a first degree, a position it had when Oxford University in England was founded in the 12th century. The degree of doctor, which comes from the Latin word for 'teacher,' was first awarded by the University of Bologna and the University of Paris in the 12th century.

The bachelor's degree is awarded at the honours and general level. An honours degree program emphasizes the acquisition of a broad and deep knowledge of the student's chosen honours subject, including both skill at applying the subject and appreciation of its relation to general knowledge and society. A general degree program emphasizes a balance between an in-depth understanding of the student's major subject and a knowledge and appreciation of other fields. Completion of an honours degree normally takes four years and a general degree, three years.

The master's degree is the second degree in higher education. Students complete concentrated and specialized work at a more advanced level in an academic discipline or professional area. Most course work is within the field of specialization and a research project or thesis is normally required. Some master's degrees provide professional qualifications. The master's degree usually requires one or two years of study after a bachelor's degree.

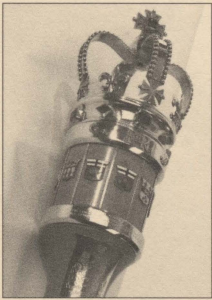

The doctoral degree is the highest academic degree granted by a university. Candidates for the degree spend several years in the advanced study of a specialized field of knowledge. The capstone of the degree is the doctoral dissertation, an extended work based upon independent research. The dissertation demonstrates the candidate's command of both the subject matter and the exacting methods of scholarship, and makes an original contribution to knowledge.

THE CEREMONY

University mace*

Wilfrid Laurier University Mace

The mace of Wilfrid Laurier University was officially presented by the Euler family at the 1963 fall convocation in memory of the Honourable W.D. Euler, Senator and the first Chancellor of the university. It weighs 16 pounds and was manufactured by the firm of Henry Birks Limited, Montreal.

The ferrule near the base of the shaft contains ivory from a walrus tusk obtained from Coral Harbour, Northwest Territories. The 10-sided shaft, representing the 10 provinces, merges into the head of the mace which bears the 10 provincial crests. The wood used at the point where the shaft meets the head of the mace is elm taken from the bannister post of Conrad Hall, the original seminary building. Above this are four crests relating to the history of the institution: a crest of Waterloo County, the Luther Coat of Arms, the crest of the Waterloo Lutheran Seminary and the coat of arms of the University of Western Ontario.

The head of the mace is made of maple and bears the Federal Coat of Arms, above which is the monogram of Queen Elizabeth II, during whose reign the university's charter was granted. On the reverse side is the crest of Wilfrid Laurier University and the monogram of King George V, during whose reign the original charter was granted. The top of the mace is a crown, mounted with jewels, symbolizing the authority of the State.

Faculty of Arts

The banner of the Faculty of Arts contains a representation of the world as studied by the social sciences and humanities disciplines from individuals to societies, across cultures, and over time. The interrelatedness of the disciplines within the Faculty of Arts is emphasized by the fact that many of these images can represent more than one discipline. Laurier's colours are woven across the top and down the left-hand side of the banner. The bottom left-hand corner contains the flame of truth, representing the unending quest for truth and knowledge encouraged within the Faculty of Arts. The banner for the Faculty of Arts was designed and executed by Sally Gray.

Faculty of Science

The banner of the Faculty of Science represents the tree of knowledge, bearing many leaves to suggest the gathering together of many scholars. The blossoms borne by this tree signify the Seven Liberal Arts of the medieval curriculum, from which the contemporary arts and sciences have sprung. The purple and gold of the design are traditional symbols of excellence, accompanied by black and white, the twin constituents of light, symbolic of wisdom, and green, the colour that in our culture most potently symbolizes life. The banner was designed by Nancy-Lou Patterson and made by Isobel R. King. The banner was first designed for the former Faculty of Arts and Science. With the creation of two new faculties, the Faculty of Science adopted the banner as its own.

School of Business & Economics

The banner for the School of Business & Economics (SBE) is visually abstract in style, relying on simple geometric shapes, in solid colours, to convey its meaning. The symbolic dualisms of the banner's colour and design are a reflection of the pairings of aims and attributes describing the school: business-economics, research-teaching, community-society, students-staff-faculty, old values-new perspectives, think internationally-act locally. The geometric shapes of the design and the layered construction of the banner pay homage to the quilting culture in the local community.

The bold, blue/green letters, SBE, contrast in colour and value with the background and are easily read, even in low light. The background is evenly divided between Laurier's official colours, purple and gold, and the two colour areas are blended from one to the other in a scattering of small squares over the surface. The superimposed squares shift in colour from purple to blue, and from gold to white, representing the colours associated with business and economics. This method of blending two contrasting colours together is drawn directly from computer technology using a graphics software program that assigns one of two colours to each pixel according to an appropriate algorithm. This results in a smooth blend overall, while retaining interesting unevenness in detail. Variations in surface texture and lustre in the fabrics cause light to reflect from the surface of the banner in different ways, further adding to the overall effect. The banner was designed and made by Ellen Adams.

the Faculty of Music banner*

Faculty of Music

The banner for the Faculty of Music was designed and executed by Ralph Beney, who taught Design for Textile at Laurier. The pinks and reds in the banner reflect the academic colour of music, which was originally scarlet but changed to pink several centuries ago. The bells are universal musical instruments. As rhythm is an essential characteristic of music, the design is rhythmic, lively.

Just as most music is basically abstract, in the sense that it does not represent other objects, the design of the banner is basically abstract. Still, just as we can hear references to birds and storms and other things in music, we can imagine that the panels of the banner represent the keys found on French horns and keyboard instruments, and that the circles represent cymbals or drums, and possibly references to musical notational symbols. The important representation, however, is of the rhythmic vitality of music.

Faculty of Social Work

Designed by Ralph Beney in 1994 for the Faculty of Social Work, whose academic colour is yellow, the representational banner conveys an interconnecting relationship between individuals and their communities, constituting our dynamic and complex society.

The Faculty of Social Work's caring and warm environment is conveyed by means of an ongoing, forward-moving open system, centred on people and their needs.

Faculty of Graduate Studies

The Faculty of Graduate Studies encourages interactive and collegial learning by fostering independent thinking and self-creation in a mentoring environment. The banner, designed and created by Ralph Beney, includes the colours in the hoods and gowns worn by graduate students at convocation. Arranged in an upwardly, forward-looking and dynamic "pyramid of learning," the interaction of the colours represents the potential for interdisciplinary study at the graduate level. The pyramid symbolizes graduate studies as the capstone of the formal learning process.

Waterloo Lutheran Seminary

The Waterloo Lutheran Seminary banner presents a “cosmic christology” in visual form. By Word and Wisdom, God creates the cosmos, makes a covenant with humankind as conscious members of that cosmos, and redeems creation in fulfilment of that covenant. The theme of the banner is the biblical affirmation “The just shall live by faith,” which parallels the Seminary motto, “By faith we walk.” The banner was designed by Nancy-Lou Patterson and quilted by Helen Weber.

The border consists of alternating blocks signifying Justification and Faith. Using the Seminary’s school colours, the blocks signifying Justification combine a gold cross and a maroon ground. Faith is signified by blocks in rainbow colours, recalling the promise of God in Genesis 9:17: “This is the sign of the covenant that I have established between me and all flesh that is on earth.” The interlocking relationship between creator and creation is symbolized by the cross which links the earth to the cosmos. God makes contact with humankind through the Word, Christ, and through the sacraments which are signified by the stream of blue water flowing from the cross (baptism), and by the stream of red blood also flowing from the cross (holy communion). This is placed on a field of 12 stars symbolizing holy Wisdom.

The Marshal’s Baton

Dr. Frederick R.S. Binding was a faculty member in the Department of Psychology for 32 years and retired in July 2003. He served as the university marshal for 10 years. Dr. Binding died in August 2003. In memory of his contribution to convocation ceremonies, the artist Rex Lingwood was commissioned to make a marshal’s baton.

In the baton, the artist incorporates a range of visual references that relate to the graduation ceremony, both directly and symbolically. In keeping with the nature of the ceremony some of the forms are traditionally associated with ceremonial staffs and the baton’s design echoes the elaborate theatricality of the event and the flair Dr. Binding brought to it. The ends may be read as abstracted figure forms wrapped in the academic gown and hood, with details in the university colours, purple and gold. These forms also read as plant buds, symbolizing the life stage of the graduates. The Greek alphabet is inset into an internal side surface in the shaft of the baton. This is a reference to the interests of Dr. Binding. It also acknowledges that language is at the core of university education and that the Greek language has particular importance in western culture.

The commission of the baton was made possible with the generous support of the Department of Psychology and Wilfrid Laurier University Retirees’ Association.

Jack Rabinovitch

Jack Rabinovitch

Today we pay tribute to Jack Rabinovitch for his remarkable contributions to Canadian business and Canadian culture.

Jack grew up in the Montreal so wonderfully depicted in Mordecai Richler's novels. He graduated from McGill University in 1952 with an Honours degree in English, then worked as a reporter and speechwriter before beginning his business career.

Jack gained early business experience as an independent builder and real estate developer. In 1972, he joined Trizec Corporation as a project manager. He contributed in senior roles at Trizec for the next 20 years. In 1986, he was appointed executive vice-president and moved to Toronto, where he lives today. In this role he led planning, development, construction, leasing, and financing initiatives for six million square feet of commercial, retail and hotel space. He developed significant joint ventures on behalf of Trizec with major Fortune 500 companies such as Xerox, General Motors, and Hilton International. He continues his business involvement today in diverse areas such as film investment and development.

Jack has always combined his business acumen with passion for community service and for Canadian literature. He has been a board member with the Princess Margaret Hospital since 1986. Jack was charged with the responsibility of planning and developing the new hospital on University Avenue in Toronto. This multi-year project was important not only because it enabled the hospital to continue as a global leader in patient care and cancer research, but also because of two rare qualities: the project finished on time, and (most surprisingly) under budget.

In 1994, Jack founded the Giller Prize to honor the memory of his wife Doris Giller. Doris had been an outstanding literary journalist who loved books, and especially valued Canadian works. "The Giller," as it is fondly known, is an annual award that recognizes the best in Canadian fiction. For authors, the Giller provides "real money" and marketing. It validates their work. For Canadian literature, the Giller provides a basis for celebration, discussion and controversy. For all Canadians the Giller provides an exciting reading list, and a window into exceptional Canadian talent.

Jack Rabinovitch's dream of celebrating his wife's memory and Canadian literature has grown and evolved. The new name "Scotiabank Giller Prize" acknowledges a sponsor partnership that enables a broader base of prize recipients. The tangible results are clear: since its inception, more than $60 million in book sales have been generated as a direct result of the prize. Robert Fulford says that his friend Jack Rabinovitch "has created a prize that shines the reputation of every Canadian book."

At Wilfrid Laurier University we especially value Jack's imagination, dreams, and dedication to combining excellence in business, community service, and the arts. For his dedication to building these foundations of Canada, we are honored to recognize Jack Rabinovitch today.

Mr. Chancellor, I am instructed by the Senate of the University to request that you admit to the Degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa, Jack Rabinovitch.

HONORARY DEGREE
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26, 2007

Afternoon Ceremony

Citation

Allon Alan Shelley Bross

Today Wilfrid Laurier University acknowledges the significant contributions of one of its graduates by honouring Mr. Allon Alan Shelley Bross for the developmental and, in many ways, pioneering work that he accomplished as a social worker, business person, educator and community member.

Allon Bross is a native of Kitchener, born here in 1951. He graduated from the University of Waterloo in 1974 with a bachelor's degree in psychology. He furthered his education at Laurier's Faculty of Social Work, earning the MSW degree in 1976. He pursued postgraduate, professional educational opportunities at the University of Toronto as well.

He began his professional career as a marriage and family therapist. Soon after that he was offered appointments at both Laurier's Faculty of Social Work and at the University of Waterloo's Renison College to teach family practice courses.

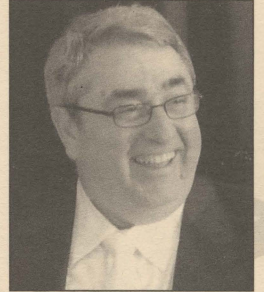

In 1981, he established Family Guidance International, simply known by the acronym FGI. The mission of this organization was to assist people in maximizing their potentials and to increase their effectiveness in their personal, family and workplace lives. He brought a tenable system of practice to this endeavour by applying systems theory to practice. His application of systems theory in practice enabled him to reach out to diverse people needing assistance with problems such as children receiving treatment for emotional, sexual and/or physical abuse; families engaged in global relocation; and organizations struggling with human and corporate staffing issues.

In his career, Mr. Bross has consulted to hundreds of public and private organizations throughout the world. Some of these include Chrysler Corporation, Dalhousie University, the University of Toronto, the Royal Bank of Canada, Babcock & Wilcox, Proctor and Gamble, Brinks Canada, and numerous hospitals and treatment centres. He has lectured in social work and business faculties in various universities in North America, Europe, Asia, and the Middle East. Mr. Bross has authored 29 articles and a book entitled Family Therapy: A Recursive Model of Strategic Practice.

In 2006, FGI was sold and Mr. Bross became the chairperson of the board of a prodigious service provider known today as Shepell-fgi. This new organization worldwide works with over 6,000 corporations, has more than 1,000 full-time employees, and has 4,800 professional associates delivering services in over 100 countries. It is committed to the core principles introduced by Mr. Bross back in 1981: to provide the highest level of professional services in the three spheres of mental, social and physical health and well-being, and to assist people to achieve their potentials.

Mr. Bross, in his chosen life work, demonstrates an excellent and significant contribution to the profession of social work through his critical analyses of contemporary practices and social issues. Through his clear thinking, he has developed an important professional practice model. I believe that Mr. Bross is a notable leader in our profession, and is a meritorious candidate for this honour.

Mr. Chancellor, I am instructed by the Senate of the University to request you to admit to the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa, Allon Alan Shelley Bross.

LAUREL

The Library, Wilfrid Laurier University

*"As for you who stand today on the threshold of life, with a long horizon open before you for a long career of usefulness to your native land...
I shall remind you that already many problems rise before you:
problems of race division, of creed differences, of economic conflict, of national duty and national aspiration. Let your aim and purpose, in good report or ill, in victory or defeat, be so to live, so to strive, so to serve as to do your part to raise even higher the standard of life and of living..."*

— Sir Wilfrid Laurier
