

LUTHERAN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY AND WATERLOO COLLEGE

WATERLOO, ONTARIO

street or look anybody in the face again. But I am happy to say she is taking it this time in the very best of spirit and baring occasional heart-burn is in the pink of condition.

I saw in The Lutheran in the last issue a criticism of the new Common Service Book by Mr. P. B. Peery. He took about a half dozen exceptions to it, but though the book is not perfect I do not agree with a single one of his criticisms. The arrangement of the hymnal is excellent and the hymns as a whole are much superior to those of the old Church Book.

Bonnie and I had three games of croquette this afternoon. She beat me, gaining two out of three, and is consequently the champion of the house at present. She nearly always beats me on Sundays but can't do it on week days I tell her it is because she hasn't quite got over her Sabbathian scruples due to her early training. Well, I have done my letter and already longer than I expected when I began and will now come to a close. With much love to you all,

Jan

Most sincerely yours,
Carroll H. Little.