Dear Mother:

As I am at home this afternoon and not especially busy I will try to write you a few lines again. I preached at Bridgeport this morning. The weather was very cold and there were not more than 25 or 30 out, but we had a very nice service. I walked down there this morning and came back through Kitchener by street car. Although the thermometer was hovering around zero I didn't mind the cold and rather enjoyed the walk. I am to have charge of the Christmas Service down there on Monday night, the 26th. Everything looks very Christmasy now. We have 2 or 3 inches of snow on the ground, and cutters are running everywhere, although the automobiles are not yet out of commission. Our cold spell came on us rather suddenly. It was comparatively mild yet on Thursday. I went down town that day on the 15th of December without an overcoat. I met Dr. Hoelter our M. C. H. and he said: "Dr. Little, you are the champion of the West wind," which I look as quite a compliment. The fact is that I am thoroughly toughened to the weather and can go anywhere bare handed and bare headed. We closed our Seminary, College, and College School Friday for the Christmas
