LETTERS RECEIVED ON LOCAL MATTERS

Electric and Steam Roads Subject to Criticism — Will Present Council Act?

A DANGEROUS CROSSING.

To the Editor:

Is it too late for the present council to take some action towards acquiring the missing link between Ridge avenue at Oak street and the roadway at the station platform? The idea of all railroads is to safeguard life and save damage suits, yet here is as dangerous a place as one can find—this crossing the tracks twice in describing a semi-circle of approximately 100 feet. After a certain hour at night the gates are not lowered and there is a chance of an approaching train not being heard and an appalling accident happening. In the daytime much time is lost by drivers who needs must wait for each one of over forty trains to pass. The council and road officials should get together and remedy the matter before some one's life pays the penalty of delay.

Pro Bono Publico.

ELECTRIC ROAD SHELTERS.

To the Editor:

Has any one of our council been obliged, on a blizzard day, to play puss-in-the-corner with a couple more or less fortunate in their arrival at the splendidly warmed shelters erected at Sunset road, Ash street, and further northward? Having hugged the inlands of that corner for quite half an hour, or hiked around to the lee-side to escape the snow bath freely bestowed by the "flyers," hasn't he wished the chicken-coop in his back yard was there? Yea, verily, he hath not so suffered or he would have had an heated interview with the road officials who ought to have these signboards, with tops on, cut into sections and swung around so as to give four corners, likewise a true shelter, for, even in summer, we do not like to take a rain bath so publicly. Will the council take it kindly if we suggest an interview conveniently quick?

Mr. H. P. Clark, physical director at the Horace Mann school, has returned from Philadelphia, where he was called last week by the death of his father.

Rev. J. W. F. Davies of the Congregational church is to speak at the Religious Educational association meeting in Cleveland, O., March 10. The subject of Mr. Davies' address is, "Children and Church Worship." This convention is to be a three-day session and will bring together prominent men of the country in religious educational work.
