POLITICS.

With the prospects of a political campaign at the coming election, the question again comes up as to what side THE TALK will take in case there are two parties in the field. It has always been the policy of this paper to take an unbiased stand on all public matters, taking sides with neither party.

Our columns are always open to everyone for the discussion of any affair pertaining to the public welfare of the village. In doing this, we feel that we are doing that which is the duty of every newspaper in setting forth the viewpoints of anyone for the discussion of all.

In other words, we are "neutral."

VOL. IV, NO. 1.

THE WINNETKA WEEKLY TALK enters upon its fourth year today. It maintains its policy of being unbiased in its editorial judgment and exact in its business dealings. The manager and editor of a village paper face difficulties that are not likely to trouble the staff of a big paper much as the resident in a small town finds life holds petty problems and annoyances not encountered in the crush of a city as large as London or New York. But fairness and squareness wear well and can overcome everything.

Without missing an issue, THE TALK has held its weekly chat with its subscribers since the start. The talks are enjoyed by the editor, at least, for if it were not for the courtesy of these same subscribers interesting news items, more than once, might be overlooked. In a town with a population of about forty-five hundred it is impossible to always be "among those present."

The prospect of growth in the coming year is encouraging. The subscription list is increasing in size and out of town papers, a number of times, have given the courtesy of an acknowledgment to THE TALK when reprinting news published from this office.

A place so filled with activity as Winnetka and with the same interests in broad and varied lines of work cannot fail to have its influence on the community at large. It is the desire of THE TALK to give hearty support to whatever may be of benefit at home and along the North Shore. Small as it is, it can still do its share.
