The Columbia School of Music gave a concert, Monday afternoon, which was well attended by the parents of the small performers. Several of the numbers were exceptionally well rendered and the event went off with a promptitude and dispatch many professional musicians would do well to follow.

On Saturday, March 6, will occur the wedding of Miss Lois Pittman and Harold Keith, son of Mrs. Elbridge Keith, at the home of Miss Pittman's aunts, the Misses Williams of Pine street. The wedding will be a small, informal celebration and will be witnessed by the two families and their intimate friends only. Miss Pittman was a debutante of two seasons ago.

One of the strong, genuine characters sometimes seen in picturesque surroundings that appear to be made for their force and breadth of vision is J. A. Burns of the Cumberland mountains. An outcome of his work for the mountaineers is the Oneida Institute, which he will talk about at the 5 o'clock service at the Congregational church Sunday. The American Magazine, a few months ago, gave a sketch of Mr. Burns' work with a fine analysis of his striking personality. The ignorance of the people living in certain sections of this country equals that of any foreign tribe and Mr. Burns is giving his life to supply the great need.

The members of the board of education entertained the members of the Woman's club on Thursday afternoon at the club house. Addresses were made by Miss Shufflebotham, Mr. H. P. Clark, Mr. E. S. Fechheimer, Mr. Edward Yeomans, Mrs. William D. McKenzie and Mrs. Maurice H. Lieber. A large audience filled the club rooms and stayed for the social hour following the program. Mrs. John Leonard Hamilton and Mrs. Harry B. Davis acted as hostesses. The next meeting of the club will be exceptionally enjoyable, as it is to be a social time full of surprises and fun, with no business of any description to intrude a serious note in the festivities.
