To those who remember the story of the spaniel that saved its master's life when a German shell exploded this will be of interest. Miss Grace Gassette, who has charge of all the supplies and bandages for a French hospital, told the story of the spaniel in one of her letters, and her cousin, Jackson Dering, son of Charles Dering, the newly elected President of the Chamber of Commerce, has just received a photograph of the noble little dog. In the letter accompanying the picture Miss Gassette tells of a little Belgian boy, whose father was at the front, his mother and sister killed and his home destroyed and who had had his knees shattered. When brought into the hospital tightly grasped in one hand was a woolly toy dog and in the other a shattered drum, which he had clung to through all his terror.
