Mrs. C. C. Bullock of Ravinia and Mrs. Harold Ickes of Winnetka have just returned from New York, where they attended the war council of the National Y. W. C. A., at which there were representatives from all the states in the Union. Thursday afternoon a meeting of the Chicago branch will be held in the rooms of the central field committee of the national association in the Garland building to arrange the Chicago campaign to safeguard the young women whose residence or occupation places them in the vicinity of army training camps.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Burt, 1027 Elmwood avenue, returned Wednesday from the annual commencement at the University of Illinois. Mr. Burt is president of the alumni association.

Mr. Clyde Fitch, 1033 Elmwood avenue, has returned from a fortnight's trip to Joplin, Mo.

Almost parental supervision is to be exercised over these young women, it is said, officials of the association realizing that their task is at once one of the most delicate and important of any which the war has created. The campaign is to be carried on in every community in this country adjoining an army training camp and even into European concentration camps where American troops will be stationed. A budget of $1,000,000 has been appropriated by the government for the work, and of this sum $350,000 is to be expended for buildings near camps to accommodate woman members of the families of officers and men in training.

Mrs. J. C. Baker of 447 Hill street is reserve captain commander of the third company at the training camp at Fort Snelling, for Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota and Nebraska men. The Baker home is rented for the summer to Dr. Herman Spoehr of the Carnegie Institute Research laboratories at Tucson, Arizona. Mrs. Baker and son are in Minneapolis, near Mr. Baker.

"SUPPLY A NEED"

RUSSEL H. CONWELL

An Obligation and a Privilege

THE world today is calling more emphatically than ever before for men and women to "supply a need." Response is being made through great self-sacrifice, such as enlisting in the Army, Navy, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and other government and benevolent service. Also by invention and manufacture of needful articles, and by producing food in the fields and in the mills. "The more food produced this year the greater the patriotism manifested" is a good slogan. Also the abolishment of every form of waste indicates true patriotism.

Merchants, too, are alive to the adoption of the most economical means of distributing food, to fully conserve their customers' interests as well as their own. This is in line with patriotic service for it is "supplying a need" to all—and makes more attractive prices possible.

That war conditions are responsible for greatly advanced prices, because of increased demand and decreased production, all must admit. Taking advantage of such a condition, it is also true that many unjust and unwarranted increases have been made by unscrupulous persons, and the merchant owes it to his trade, to the community and to his country to take the initiative in dealing with such cases as they richly deserve. When he does this, and thereby "supplies a need" the community will remunerate him. Someone has said, "Give the world something it has need of, something better than it can get elsewhere, and be you ever so isolated, it will blaze a trail to your door."

Your need is what we want to know about. We want to "supply the need" to your satisfaction. We appreciate all the trade we can get, but honor and self respect forbid us to desire money unless satisfaction is given in return. The loyalty of this community to our store is very gratifying and we shall bend every energy toward "supplying the need" according to the best interpretation of true service, leading to permanent good.
