A Service Station

- Have you ever thought of your bank as a service station? It is a service station indeed.
- Where funds may be deposited safely and conveniently.
- Where deserving customers may borrow on good security.
- Where sound securities, yielding attractive rates, can be purchased.
- Where a well organized accounting department assists in the keeping of your books and accounts.
- Where moneys can be exchanged into denominations to meet the needs of the business man.
- Where thrift is encouraged by the opening of accounts with small sums and interest paid on the same.
- Where your various needs in the banking line are taken care of promptly and courteously, and where honest and expert advice is rendered to customers cheerfully and without charge.
- You will find here such a Service Station.
