COMMISSION GIVES R. R. RIGHT TO ADVANCE FARE

and Great Lakes Training camps, and in this connection has ordered the road to file quarterly reports of their income and expenses of operation.

Our experience in this and other rate litigations on the north shore, urges us again strongly to recommend that in the future some arrangement be made by which the cause of the municipalities may be presented in an effective manner. The municipalities should make appropriations sufficient for the purpose of employin greasonable expert and legal assistance.

The increase in rates asked for by the road in this case amounted to approximately $150,000 a year in the state of Illinois. Surely a matter of this importance demands careful consideration and the exercise of business prudence.

Yours very truly,
Committee on Law and Legislation.

Bell System
WHEN MEMBERS of the Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Fort Sheridan began receiving their commissions, their first thought was to notify their relatives and friends, sweethearts and wives, wherever they might be. To do this a rush was made for a telephone—somewhere in Lake County.
STOP FOR A MINUTE and think how the calls must have piled up! Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, Louisville, Davenport and a score of other places. And not only must each place called for be reached; but every one of this lot of eager, happy, insistent fellows was intent on getting his call through FIRST and getting it through quick.
RUSHES ARE FREQUENTLY made on the telephone service in normal times and they are always more or less difficult to handle.
WITH WAR ACTIVITIES at flood tide the problem increases in complexity, and in the case in point some men had to wait, but all were served, finally.
MOST GRATIFYING to the Telephone Company was the fact that every man was patient, all seemed to realize our position, and did their part in helping us by being good natured.
