

HOUSE-WARMING OPENS CABIN

On the Twentieth day of this April,
this year,
Be it raining or shining
We'll want you out here,

In our hours built of logs,
all of oak and hand-hewed,
Where the cobwebs co-mingle
And antiquer are glued.

In the old-fashioned style and the old-fashioned way
There will be a house warming
All night and all day.

'Twill be plain and informal,
with laughter and song
Come along and make merry
Mix in with the throng.

The Burnham-Tribe.

Sat. April 20th 1918—3PM to Midnight.

An Indian or two mingled with ye old fashioned ladies and gentlemen, last Saturday afternoon and evening, when the little wooden doors of the attractive log cabin in Hubbard Woods, now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Newton Burnham, were opened for a house-warming party. The little house, which, according to records, is at least a hundred years old, has been moved from its original site in Indian Hill, near the gold links, to a most attractive site, in the midst of the woods, at the extreme west end of North avenue, in Hubbard Woods. Two hundred guests, who made merry until late into the night.

thing possible for the soldiers at the front, there could be, it seems to me, no more patriotic duty than that of protecting the children, who constitute one-third of our population.

The success of the efforts made in England in behalf of the children is evidenced by the fact that the infant death rate in England for the second year of the war was the lowest in her history. Attention is now being given to education and labor conditions for children by the legislatures of both France and England, showing that the conviction among the Allies is that the protection of childhood is essential to winning the war.

I am very glad that the same processes are being set afoot in this country, and I heartily approve the plan of the Children's Bureau and the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense for making the second year of the war one of united activity on behalf of children, and in that sense a children's year.

I trust that the year will not only see the goal reached of saving one hundred thousand lives of infants and young children, but that the work may so successfully develop as to set up certain irreducible minimum standards for the health, education and work of the American child.

Cordially and sincerely yours,

(Signed) Woodrow Wilson.

All women are urged to come to the Woman's club Thursday afternoon and hear of this wonderful work, which will mean so much to the future of the children. There will be good music.

Grow a Garden

If you haven't the land or the time for a big garden, grow a little one. "Many nickels make a muckle," the Scotch say.

A thousand little gardens are not only equal to, but are a great deal better than a hundred big ones.

The time for talking about growing a garden has passed. Planting time is here. Plant the things the family likes, and things of the sort that all which cannot be eaten can be canned.

Keep this in mind: An idle plot of land this year will be a reflection on its owner.

Make every square yard of earth do its duty toward winning the war.
