

FRANCIS G. BLAIR

Republican Candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction

PRIMARY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1918

Mr. Blair's National Prominence

From "The Journal of Education", Boston, Mass., April, 1917
Report of National Department of Superintendence held in Kansas City, Missouri.

Hon. Francis G. Blair, State Superintendent of Illinois, at the Council of Education meeting on Monday evening made one of the most effective speeches on Legislation versus Administration that we have heard in any convention in many a day.

"It was an epoch in the educational life of Illinois when Francis G. Blair became State Superintendent. He has accomplished simply marvelous results by way of starting things and awakening the kind of zeal that abides.

Editorial Opinions Of The Illinois Daily Press

Superintendent Blair

(Editorial from the Chicago Tribune, October 17, 1914.)

As Superintendent of Public Instruction in Illinois this official is constantly required to deal with the problems involving the important education and social relations, and must be able to present to the people the ideals of public education which are set by the statutes and traditions of the state, and at the same time to harmonize all these matters with the feelings, beliefs and preferences of individuals, groups and classes of many sorts. For such responsibility Mr. Blair is well fitted by education and experience. His insight into the educational and legal principles involved in the administration of his office, and the fairness of his application of those principles to each concrete problem of school administration should secure for him support in all parties and insure his reelection.

Opinion of Union Labor

From "The Illinois Tradesman"... Professor Blair has kept the office free of political juggling and has given the people of the State of Illinois a splendid administration. This state is justly famous for its educational institutions, both public and private, and no state in the Union ranks any higher.

(From "Republican-Register," Galesburg, Ill., Friday, Oct. 30, 1914.)

It is the common opinion of educators throughout the state that State Superintendent Blair should be re-elected. He has administered the affairs of the schools of the state with so much discretion and wisdom that with his large experience he should be retained where he is.

(From the Springfield, Ill., "Journal," Tuesday, Oct. 6, 1914.)

Mr. Blair is a credit to the great school system of Illinois, in the building up of which he has been most industrious. Active, devoted to his profession and possessed of an enthusiasm which he imparts to everyone connected with the school work, he makes an ideal leader. He is also a good executive officer and his office has been admirably conducted from a business as well as from an educational standpoint.

(Editorial from Kewanee Daily Star-Courier, July 31, 1918.)

It is not often that a candidate for a state office can attract such general and sincere support as that which is given Francis G. Blair, for whom petitions have been filed for superintendent of public instruction.

The reason for this support, however, is plain. Mr. Blair has seen to it that his office has been administered from the standpoint of a practical school man, instead of that of a politician. He has brought the principles of fair play into all the problems of his office and the people have not been slow to appreciate what this has meant.

EXPERIENCE COUNTS

And You as Voters Are Entitled to Get the Full Benefit of it

CARL R. CHINDBLOM, candidate for Republican nomination for representative from the Tenth District, is a man of wide experience in public affairs and in business life. His education and training have fitted him to give the Tenth District able representation in the United States Congress.

He is not an uncertain quantity. He has already shown the people of this district where he stands and what he can do. He has an unsullied record as a public servant. He has served as county commissioner of Cook County and as county attorney. He is now serving a term as master in chancery.

From the first day of America's entrance into the war, he has been a tireless and enthusiastic worker for the national cause. He devised the plan for war work for attorneys which has been recommended for acceptance all over the country. His services have always been in demand throughout Illinois and the neighboring states as a patriotic speaker for various war drives.

His platform is: Win the war and prepare for peace.

Get the benefit of his experience.

Make sure that the Tenth District will be ably represented in the coming congress, which promises to be one of the most important in American history.

Vote for Carl R. Chindblom in the primary Election, September 11.
