

War Emergency Union Activities

THE FIFTH LOAN

A large percentage of the money which will be subscribed to the Fifth Liberty loan will go toward the rehabilitation of wounded men. The United States government is resolved to do its utmost to restore every wounded American soldier and sailor to health, strength and self-supporting activity. He will not be discharged from the hospital until all the medical and surgical treatment necessary to restore him to health has been given him, under jurisdiction of military or naval authorities, according to the branch of service he is in.

Then his future will be considered by the Federal Board for Vocational education. If he has been disabled in such a way that he cannot take up the work he left to go into the country's service, a large vocational field is opened up to him, with a wide choice of occupations. He is carefully trained to self-supporting activity.

If he needs an artificial limb or mechanical appliance, the government will supply it free, keep it in repair and renew it when necessary. If, after his discharge from the hospital, he again needs medical treatment on account of his disability, the government will supply it free. While he is in the hospital and while in training afterwards the soldier or sailor will receive compensation as if in service and his family or dependents will receive their allotments.

Also, a wounded soldier or sailor, regardless of whether his disability prevents him from taking up his former employment, may take a course in vocational training, free of cost, and the war-risk insurance compensation will be paid him during the time of training. In this case no allotment will be paid to his family.

The training branches, with their thousands of trained instructors, will use millions of the nation's dollars, and the country, instead of being filled with dependent cripples and beggars, an eyesore to the nation and a constant reminder of the horrible side of the great war, with its glorified cause and its magnificent victory, will have thousands of highly trained men—heroes, the glory of whose sacrifice will not have been tarnished by a moral and mental disintegration.

That's one of the reasons why the Fifth Liberty loan must be oversubscribed. The first three loans America launched in the war—built training camps and equipped and sent the men overseas; the Fourth Liberty loan, the "fighting" loan, backed up the fighting men and made overwhelming victory for the allies possible. The Fifth or Victory loan will be just as important in the annals of war loans, for both moral and material reasons. America would be monstrously ungrateful should she not stay with her men in khaki and blue until they are returned to their homes, physically strong and able to earn a livelihood. The best way for every person to show his personal gratitude is to start now planning how much he can subscribe to the Fifth loan.

SMILEAGE BOOKS ARE IN DEMAND BY MEN RETURNING FROM FRANCE

The war department commission on training camp activities sent out an appeal to holders of smileage books, urging that they be sent to the commanding officers of ports of debarkation for distribution to soldiers arriving from overseas. Sale of smileage books, the coupons in which give admission to liberty theaters, has been stopped, because the war department estimates that enough is outstanding to meet all needs; so no smileage can be purchased now. This outstanding smileage is in the hands of individuals or local committees which purchased it for presentation to soldiers, and the commission says that no better use for it could be found than to place it at the disposal of the homecoming men. Many of them, it seems, are reaching this country with little or no money. They are hungry for theatrical entertainment after their military service and the trip across the ocean, but have no funds to pay admission to the liberty theaters at the camps. Those to whom smileage has been given are pleased and grateful.

Smileage books forwarded to the commanding officers at the ports of debarkation in any of the eastern military districts will be held by these officers and issued, by them, as needed, to the returning soldiers. Americans desirous of taking part in this country's welcome to the men who have fought in France have this direct method of participating if they possess any smileage books.

Function of Art.

Truer words were never spoken by Schiller than when he said: "Where and whenever art deteriorates, it is always the fault of the artists." The function of art is to educate, and elevate, and when it fails to do this, it fails in its mission.
