

SEEK FUNDS FOR INFANT WELFARE

The Winnetka branch of the Infant Welfare society has issued an appeal for subscriptions this week to meet its annual budget of $3500. The budget has been increased from $2200 to $3500 this year because of the increased responsibilities the society has assumed. The Infant Welfare society will henceforth take care of the children up to six years of age instead of two years of age as formerly and a "prenatal school" for mothers will be established at each station. This extension of the work has increased the expenses for the Winnetka station about $1500 over what it was last year. The society earnestly hopes that the Winnetka public will respond readily and generously to this appealing call from the little children. The support and hearty co-operation of the Winnetka citizens in this work in the past has enabled the society to carry out a constructive program of helpfulness for those children of our tenements who otherwise would have had little opportunity in life. We trust that this appeal will reach the hearts of all those to whom the interest of children is dear.

Winnetka Branch, Infant Welfare Society.
