Beginning A New Era

Plans are already well under way for the joint celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth, Massachusetts, by the United States and England, the British committee, under the chairmanship of the Duke of Connaught, being more active even than the American committee. Under the program being worked out there will be appropriate ceremonies at every place concerned with the coming of the Pilgrims to the stern and rockbound shore of New England, including Leyden, Holland. Motion pictures depicting the events of this era of our early history will be shown, a portion of the program that would be amazing to the men and the women who actually made that bit of American and British history.

Representative Englishmen will come to America to take part in the celebration, and representative Americans will go to England. There will be an evidence of good will between the countries that will tell the story of the new relation between the two great members of the Anglo-Saxon race, a wonderful promise of the harmony that will mark the new era about to begin.

When America and the Mother Country can unite in celebration of those events that developed because of the oppression which the government of England wished to impose upon the colonists in America, we see, not how far America has progressed towards a complete forgetfulness of injury sustained at the hand of the oppressor, but how far England has traveled on the road that leads to a purely democratic system of government. No Englishman of today blames the early colonists for rebellion against the tyranny of the English crown. They and we are much too nearly related in a love of liberty now to make possible any such consideration.

We may yet live to see a joint American and British celebration of Independence Day. Much stranger things have happened in the last five years.

Physician Resumes Practice

Major Blatchford has been honorably discharged from the army and has returned to his home in Winnetka and resumed his medical practice.

The Policy of the "Uncluttered Shelf"

There's a satisfaction in dealing with a grocer who has eliminated the "doubtful" brands from his store.

You can pick up your phone and say "Send me up a can of vegetable soup and a can of peas," and then forget it. You know that they'll be just what you want. We don't carry anything we can't recommend.

Our service consists, among other things, in testing thoroughly the various food products on the market, old and new alike, and then selecting only what we are willing to use ourselves.

Take the case of RYZON, The Perfect Baking Powder. Knowing the General Chemical Company, we knew that any baking powder they would market must be of unusual quality, so we tried it and the RYZON Baking Book too.

We found we could do things with baking powder we never knew could be done. Could make boiled dumplings that you'd never know were boiled; make batter one day and use it the next—in fact we found RYZON to be thoroughly economical, always uniform and the RYZON recipes of untold value.

RYZON is 40c per pound and worth more—the RYZON Baking Book of 200 tested recipes is 30c. Ask us about them when you call.

The officers for the coming year will be elected and two slight changes will be voted upon in articles IV and VII in the by-laws. After a short business meeting Mr. Charles W. Washburne, the new superintendent of Winnetka public schools, will greet the association and then Miss Garretson will present the question of health work among our school children, emphasizing some of the special needs. "That is salient which is strikingly manifest or which catches the attention at once."—Webster

A PASSING glance reveals the qualities that have established this car at the fore-front of automobile favor—style, finish and performance.

Style: Its lines are boldly original, yet tempered by a conservatism that makes it ideal as a family conveyance. Finish is apparent in the mirror like perfection of the painting and every detail of the fittings, all of which proclaim care and attention to the utmost degree.

The perfected over-head valve engine insures high operating economy, with maximum power and flexibility.
