SEES DEMAND FOR LEAGUE

Subject, "The Moral Demand for a League of Nations" Attracts Attention

The speaker at the Wilmette Sunday Evening club for next Sunday, May 18, will be Dr. Charles R. Brown of Yale University. His subject will be "The Moral Demand for a League of Nations."

Not only is his subject of timely interest, but Dr. Brown himself is one of the most effective speakers on the American platform. He spoke last Sunday evening at the Chicago Sunday Evening club to an audience of nearly 3,000 and in the morning to an audience of 2,000 at the University of Chicago. Those who miss this address will miss one of the greatest addresses of the season on the Sunday Evening club program.

Engage Noted Soloist

The soloist of the evening will be Hazel Helen Wells-Moody who is well known in musical circles. The pipe organ recital will be given by Mrs. Marie Edwards Von Ritter. The service begins at 7:45 o'clock.

ESSEX WINS CLASS HONORS IN CLIMB

Climbing eight tortuous miles to an elevation of nearly five thousand feet in the amazing time of nineteen minutes and four seconds, an Essex won first place in the light car class and second place against the entire field in competition with some of the most costly cars built in the "Rim-of-the-World" hill climb at San Bernardino, California.

The Essex was driven by Arthur Fuller of Los Angeles, and its showing is regarded as unusually remarkable when it is considered that the contest was finished with one of the front wheels near collapse as a result of a skid into the mountain-side.

"It was the most difficult hill climb ever held in California," said Mr. Fuller. "There were no successful rival of the Essex in its class. Even in the heavy car class it was only a car costing almost twice as much and having over twice the piston displacement that made any better time."

"The Essex is a car that can climb the steepest and longest grades without overheating. That had much to do with our victory. A cool motor also means freedom from lubricating troubles."

Service Station Head Discusses Batteries Used In War Work

That batteries produced by the Electric Storage Battery company played an important part in the war-winning program was recently made known by Mr. F. W. Otto, manager of the Evanston "Exide" Service station. "Of course, 'Exide' batteries helped Uncle Sam," said Mr. Otto; "they were in the war from the very beginning, but the government thought it best that we say nothing and saw wood. However, now that the fighting's over, it won't do any harm to reminisce a bit."

"A battleship on a cruise, for instance, must be absolutely self-dependent; it's got to be equipped to successfully meet one hundred percent of the emergencies that may arise. Every United States vessel of war is provided, in addition to its regular system of lighting, with an auxiliary or reserve from which it can draw current for emergency lights in case of necessity, and the 'Ironclad-Exide' or 'Exide' batteries were used to supply this reserve. In the huge supertype of battleship, the latest war monster built by the United States, provision for auxiliary power for steering is supplied by an electrically operated equipment that will enable the tremendous bulk of these great ship to respond to the rudder, even should the entire engine room be out of commission. 'Ironclad-Exide' batteries were used here with remarkable success."

"In electric locomotive work, a war service of great importance, the 'Exide' and 'Ironclad-Exide' batteries were used. And the part played by the 'Exide' battery in airplane and seaplane service would seem to have been second in importance only to that of the motor itself. The 'Exide' battery was also used for field telephone service and for telephone communication in the trenches and many of the United States submarines called into important war service in English waters were equipped with 'Exide' or 'Ironclad-Exide' batteries."

Bringing Up Father At Home

Walter Vernon, of the team of Vernon and Earle, is to be seen again in his hilarious characterization of "Jiggs" Mahoney, the quaint little Celt of George McManus' screaming comic cartoon series, "Bringing Up Father." Vernon scored a world hit in the realization of the McManus creation when the cartoon comedy first saw the stage. This season his role is said to be more droll than ever, the new production is called "Bringing Up Father At Home," the new production with a beauty chorus beyond compare comes to the Victoria theater for one week commencing Sunday, matinee, May 18, with bargain matinees Thursday and Saturday.

New Trier Sport Notes

GIANTS AND TIGERS WIN IN TIGHT LEAGUE RACE

The Giants defeated the White Sox 7 to 3 in a five inning game yesterday while the Tigers took a fall out of the Cubs by clouting the pill for a 14 to 0 victory. Roth pitched a one hit game for the Tigers, Robinson being the only man to connect with his delivery.

One noticeable and very lamentable fact connected with these Intra-Mural games is that no girls ever come to see their heroes perform on the diamond. If they came out in as great a body as they do when the rush to the mess room there would be fewer errors as the boys would all play their best brand of ball to please the fair ones.

Swimming Pool Popular

As the warm weather comes slowly but surely to this section of the country the swimming pool is being inhabited more regularly by the boys. They are beginning to believe in the phrase "Come on in, the water's fine."

Field Day Near

The cadets are all excited over the coming of the big field day to be held on Saturday, May 24. They are drilling at every possible chance and all feel confident of victory when the big time comes.

Basketball Results

Results of this week's Intra-Mural basketball games were not obtainable in the gymnasium, but rest assured that next week's scores will find their way into the Sport Notes.

Plays With Wilmette Team

Barry, star New Trier athlete and pitcher, is holding down the position of shortstop for the Wilmette baseball team. He connected with the ball for a triple last Sunday at Lake Forest, driving in the first two runs of the game for his team.

SALVATION ARMY TO TURN SALOONS INTO CLUBS FOR BACHELORS

The ancient, if not honorable, institution—the corner saloon, with its mahogany bar and brass rail—will not be relegated to desuetude on July 1, but will be taken over by the Salvation Army and run as an innocuous club for bachelors.

This announcement is made by Commander Evangeline Booth. The movement to bring as many of the barrooms as possible under the flag of the Salvation Army, it is announced, will extend from ocean to ocean and from Canada to Mexico.

There will be a white-jacketed bar-keep, as now, and the counter across from the mahogany will become a self-service restaurant instead of a "free lunch" counter. Only soft drinks will be dispensed. The official motto under which the "alcoholless" bar will be run is:

"Married men to their homes and families on time—bachelors welcome to stick indefinitely."

Commander Booth in an interview said:

"The saloon, as it exists today, is not wholly bad. I say this deliberately, although I believe strong drink is a mocker and that the excessive use of alcohol destroys both body and soul. Probably half the men who go to saloons are led by a craving for companionship.

"The Salvation Army has, within the last few weeks, demonstrated the psychology of the brass rail. There is something about the shining bar which brings all men to a common footing. The easy and relaxed attitude of those who lean against the mahogany or cherry suggests comfort. Because wine and beer are to go, shall not a man take his ease in his own inn?"

"Therefore, at our newly-opened hotel in West Forty-seventh street we have kept the bar and brass rail and the bartender back of them. Although soft drinks are served instead of hard ones, this barroom of the new era glows with good cheer. There are many bartenders of genial personality and good character who could just as well remain behind the soft drink bar as not."

The first step of the Salvation Army will be to acquire, in New York, the leases of saloons which have been closed at much-frequented

Weary House Hunters— are Renting Apartments from Plans

So great is the demand for flats and apartments here in Chicago that prospective tenants can't even wait for buildings to rise from the ground.

Thousands Seek Plan to Live

So great is demand and so attractive are possible returns that there is going to be tremendous building activity this year. With rents at unprecedented figures, think what an opportunity you have to put a two or three story apartment on your vacant lot and fill it immediately.

Prices Will Not Recede

Don't hesitate because you think that building prices may slump in the next year. They won't. Lumber costs have not risen in proportion to other costs. In fact, the tremendous building activity that must necessarily come will have a tendency to increase, rather than lower prices.

Talk to Your Local Lumber Dealer

Get his ideas—talk to him about the kind of lumber that you should use. He's an expert in woods and can give you valuable hints on your building.

Patronize him—you'll find him with complete stocks, ready for immediate delivery and eager to give you the sort of attention that is worth your while.
