CITATION

The following extracts from a Pittsburgh daily bears information of the citation of Colonel William J. Crookston of the 28th Division, A. E. F., by General Pershing. Colonel Crookston will be known to Winnetka residents as one of the three brothers of Mrs. J. B. Guthrie, 730 Walden road, who served gallantly in the A. E. F. in France. Colonel Crookston is a well known physician and was in charge of army hospitals near the front.

Colonel Crookston entered the service with the Red Cross. He was in charge of hospitals in Budapest and later went to Russia with a corps of Red Cross nurses. He was decorated by the King of Sweden for rescuing a Swedish princess from the hands of revolutionaries in Russia. Colonel Crookston was also for a time on the Mexican border and in charge of the medical work at Camp Hancock where he established the record of having the healthiest cantonment in the United States.

The citation reads as follows: "As Division Surgeon he displayed marked ability of organization and administration with the 28th division in France. With keen judgement he supervised the location of dressing stations and field hospitals, and used remarkable discretion in directing the entire work of evacuation of a large number of casuals. By constant vigilance and unceasing effort he provided for the health and treatment of the troops with whom he served, displaying professional attainments of a high order."

STEPHENS Salient Six

As you ride in a Stephens Salient Six, unconsciously comparing it with other cars you meet, you are filled with a happy sense of pride in your possession. For the Stephens is the peer of the finest cars that tread the highway, in appearance, performance and refinements.

The Stephens Salient Six Four-Passenger carries especial fascination, by virtue both of its advanced style and the many unusual novelties of its equipment. The top is a special semi-Victoria design, with beveled French plate glass mirrors in the sides and rear. A walnut paneled robe compartment is built into the double cowl, and a touring kit, complete with brushes, trench mirror, etc., is concealed in the right hand front door.

The Stephens engine is a perfected over-head valve design that is a marvel of flexibility and power. It is especially designed to burn low grade gasoline, developing full fifty-seven horse power on the poorest fuel, with rigid economy.

The Stephens Salient Six invites comparison at every point. Inspection at your pleasure.

Immediate delivery Guaranteed. Your present car taken in trade at liberal allowance. Demonstration at your convenience
