

Social Happenings on the North Shore by Ruth Risley

WITH THE OPERAS of Friday and Saturday evenings, the second week of Ravinia's season closes. Conditions so far have been ideal for making it a great success. The weather, which is an important factor, has been good. The principal singers have national reputations, and they are equalling, and in many instances, surpassing, what we have been led to expect from them. Old and new operas are being given. "Pagliacci" is always well done at Ravinia. "The Barber of Seville," was beautifully sung last week, and the production of "Il Trovatore" was one of the best performances of opera ever given at the park, according to our critic.

This week, on Friday evening, "L'Oracolo," a new opera, will be given, preceded by the first act of "Pagliacci"; Saturday evening, "La Boheme," is to be presented. The attendance has been very good. There were seven thousand persons present on the opening night, and nearly as many on the Fourth of July.

Concerts are always given on Monday evenings and on Friday evenings, unless an opera is substituted, as is the case this week. On Thursday afternoons of each week, there is an entertainment and a concert for the children, on Friday afternoon, a program is given for the soldiers and sailors, and popular programs are given Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Operas are given on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

The Ravinia club is this year entertaining the wounded soldiers and sailors from Fort Sheridan on Friday and Saturday afternoons. Supper is served in the stadium to about three hundred men each night. The club rooms over the casino are kept open and the men are welcome to come here at any time. This week the Winnetka Ravinia committee, assisted by others, has charge of the canteen.

On each Friday morning at 11 o'clock, the Ravinia club holds a meeting in the club room. The officers and the members of the committees in the north shore towns are expected to be present, and the holders of season ticket books are invited and urged to attend. In this way, many can know of the interesting work which the Ravinia club is doing.

THE LAWN of Mrs. John W. Scott's residence on Sheridan road, will be the scene of a fairy-like fete this evening and again on Saturday afternoon of this week, when one hundred and twenty-five Winnetka children will present Jessie Gaynor's "The House that Jack Built," the libretto for which was written by Mrs. Harrison B. Riley of Evanston. The proceeds from the affair will go to Arden Shore, the summer camp for city worn mothers and children near Lake Bluff. Mrs. Thomas H. McInnerney, who is the chairman of the two days, has as her co-workers: Mrs. John W. Scott, Mrs. Horace Kent Tenney, Mrs. George A. Thorne, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. William P. Sidley, Mrs. John Hardin, Mrs. Ralph Ellis, Miss Ruth Matz, and Miss Augusta Fenger.

Society along the north shore and in Chicago is greatly interested in the carbaret supper that will end a festive day on Saturday of this week, when a fete for the benefit of the Ridge Farm Preventorium for Children will be held at Onwentsia. The afternoon program will consist of a polo match at 3 o'clock, the Onwentsia team meeting the Miami Valley Hunt and Polo team from Dayton, Ohio, followed by a golf game, when Miss Anna Stirling and Robert A. Gardner will play against Miss Elaine Rosenthal and "Chick" Evans.

Onwentsia grounds are at their loveliest now, and every one, whether he is a golf "bug" or still sane, may enjoy "gallerying" the foursome. A little "halfway" stand, presided over by some of the prettiest debutantes, will be an oasis for the tired wayfarers at the end of the ninth hole. Ridge farm, for the benefit of which the fete will be given, is filling a niche that no other institution in this part of the country attempts to fill, that of caring for little girls with tubercular tendencies, and is accomplishing a wonderful work.

The farm covers twenty-seven acres, lying in the open country about one and a half mile west of Fort Sheridan. It is an ideal place for pre-tubercular children, who are helped tremendously in their fight for health by the opportunities for outdoor life in the garden and woods.

The home, which was built in 1913, contains two large glass inclosed sleeping porches, a schoolroom, a large living room, kitchen and laundry, an isolation room, bathrooms, and accommodations for the staff of four.

SOLVE CANAL MYSTERY; FIND DROWNED YOUTHS

Bodies of Chicago Boys Who Leaped From Canal Bridge, Recovered From Drainage Canal

A double mystery surrounding an accident two weeks ago at the Elevated canal bridge of the Chicago Sanitary district where three boys were said to have leaped into the water to avoid an approaching express train, and the disappearance of three boys from their home in Chicago on the night of the canal bridge incident, was cleared by the Evanston police late last week when three bodies were recovered from the canal and identified by the parents of the boys.

Drainage canal workmen dredging the canal near the West Railroad avenue bridge in Evanston discovered the body of Walter Birr last Tuesday morning. On the following day the bodies of Reuben and Morris Zeigler were discovered floating down the canal near Irving Park boulevard, Chicago.

An inquest was held in Chicago, Monday, July 7.

On Fishing Expedition
The boys, all of whom lived at 1510 Rockwell avenue, Chicago, left their home late Saturday night, June 28, to engage in a fishing expedition at the mouth of the Drainage canal in Wilmette. Early Sunday morning motorman C. G. Malm, 262 South boulevard, Evanston, reported having seen two boys on the canal bridge at Central street as he approached on a south bound car. As soon as he saw them he applied the brakes and the boys tumbled off the bridge and disappeared. A search was made by two fishing poles was all that could be found. Shortly after the three boys were reported missing.

ECONOMY TRUCK

The average load of the ordinary truck—outside the heavy haulage-field—is around 2,000 pounds. Is it not better policy to invest in a truck capable of transporting this load speedily and economically than the heavier, slower and more expensive vehicle? Then the question arises: "How will I handle heavier than average loads?" The answer is: "Make two trips."

The heavier truck running on solid tires travels between ten and twelve miles an hour. The Oldsmobile Economy Truck, equipped with Pnenmatic Cord tires, will maintain twenty to twenty-five miles.

The extra speed and lower operating costs enables two trips of the Oldsmobile Economy Truck to be made at less expense than one trip of the heavy truck.
