Help The Lassies Work

The Salvation Army drive is on. The Salvation Army is organized for service of the highest quality. Its men and women stand ready to go down into the very depths to help human beings who have been broken in their fight with life, just as they stood ready to go into the face of battle fire to help the men whose bodies were broken by the weapons of the enemy. The watchword of the Salvation Army is "Service First, Last and All the Time," although that is not inscribed on their banners.

We never knew the efficiency of the Salvation Army until it began to minister to the needs of our own boys on the field of battle. Then we discovered that we had been entertaining unawares a body of highly trained, highly efficient, highly organized workers for mankind. When we learned how much doughnuts and coffee meant to our own tired boys, we began to see how just such comfortable treatment might contribute to the redemption to lives of usefulness of those ready to despair in the battle against circumstances that have all but downed them.

It requires money to equip, train and maintain an army of workers. This money has, in the past, been provided through personal solicitation of members of the army itself, lassies taking collections in their tambourines, men and women in the uniform of the service calling from house to house to secure the meagre contributions of the comfortable who have had no acquaintance with grief, know but little of the needs that the army has met for the unfortunate.

This is a day that does not countenance waste of effort, at least theoretically. We spend money to make machinery more efficient and to provide inanimate help to make the labor of men and women more efficient. We do not contemplate waste in production with any degree of complacency, and we must have come to see the waste in the use of highly trained men and women, taken from their proper work, to canvass the town for dimes and dollars, when, by subscribing to the fund for operating expenses we can turn that energy into the helping of the distressed who turn to the Salvation Army for aid, comfort and advice.

We have, in the past before the war, been disposed to look upon the Salvation Army as a purely religious organization. It is, but it is a body that combines faith with work, which is certainly a sort to make an appeal to us all.

The Swiss Commission

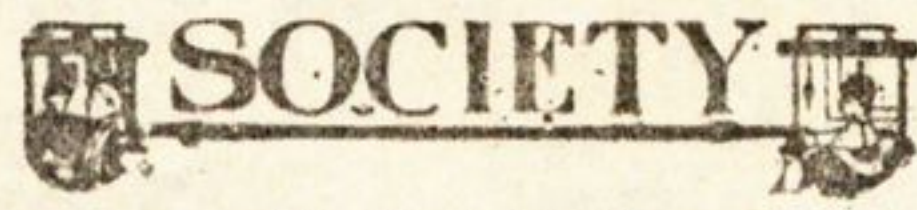

A large commission from Switzerland is visiting the United States for the purpose of studying the industrial systems of the country. Certainly an unfortunate time has been chosen for the journey, for there is little in our industrial conditions today that invites emulation.

In the days before the war the conditions that prevailed in American industry would have excited wonder in the minds of representatives of the same industry in the old world. American working men were better paid, better housed, better provided for in every way than those of any country on the other side of the sea. The American working man's home would have been a revelation to those accustomed to the standards that prevailed in Europe in the days before the war.

Today every industry in America is suffering from the paralyzing effect of the conditions that are breeding greater and greater under-production. How little may we do, seems to be the watchword of those who are producing the necessities of the general public. Selfish proprietors have little interest in increasing their profits beyond a set point because of the revenue law that requires the payment of a large proportion into the coffers of the government under the excess profit tax. The devastating effect of the "cost plus" plan, originated and followed by the departments of war and the navy during the period of production of war materials, is felt everywhere. The more the output of the materials could be made to cost, the greater would be the per cent of profit allowed. It is the habit of mind that it is not easy to dissipate now that conditions are different.

So far as organization and system in the operation of the great industries of America are concerned, the Swiss delegation will no doubt be impressed by what they see in their tour of the great industrial centers of the United States. This country has produced men of genius in that respect and their works are marvelous as a background of our industrial life. But the more superficial conditions of the operation of the great systems that have been evolved are bewildering enough to the student of economic conditions who is familiar with the American character. To the men of foreign birth and old world standards there must seem to be no explanation of the conditions that they find to be existent.

By Ruth Risley

On Wednesday afternoon a most successful subscription card party was given at Indian Hill Golf club for the benefit of John Miller, the flagman, who so heroically risked his own life in a vain attempt to save the lives of others. Over $400 was made, and since there were no expenses, the full amount has been turned over to the Miller fund. Everyone seemed more than willing to help; the clubrooms were donated, the Woman's club loaned the chairs, the North Shore Livery took care of the transportation of the chairs, and even the prizes and refreshments were donated. Mrs. Hugh Foresman of Kenilworth, and a group of assistants were in charge.

A pretty home wedding took place on Wednesday evening of this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Trapp, 950 Linden avenue, when their daughter, Lucille, became the bride of Harold Jenkins of Evanston. Father F. J. Haarth of the Sacred Heart church, read the services at 7 o'clock. Miss Frances Trapp was her sister's only attendant. Following a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins will be at home after November 1, at 1245 Judson avenue, Evanston.

The first of several affairs for Miss Blanche MacLeish Day and Robert Leslie Alton was a dinner party this evening at the Balckstone at which Charles Stuart of Kenilworth will be host. Mr. Stuart is to be an usher at the marriage of Miss Day and Mr. Alton the afternoon of October 4 at Christ church.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Mary Klauke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klauke of Asbury avenue, Hubbard Woods, and Thomas Golden of Austin, which is to be solemnized at Sacred Heart church, on Wednesday morning, October 8, at 9 o'clock.

Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Wales will move into their new home at 385 Ridge avenue on October 1. Miss Virginia Wales has returned to Lake Forest college to resume her work as a junior, and Miss Dorothea Wales entered the senior class at Northwestern University this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Mower, who, since their marriage in the early summer, have had a house in Winnetka, will move October 1 to an apartment at 1447 North Dearborn Parkway, Chicago. Mrs. Mower was Miss Helen Higbie.

Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway Watson and children have returned to their residence at 510 Wellington avenue, Chicago, after spending the summer in Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. Kussell Logg, who have been in Winnetka for the summer, are to spend the winter in Lake Forest. They have taken the C. E. Pope house, just across from Onwentsia club for a year.

Mrs. William B. McIlvaine and daughters, Madeline and Priscilla, of Hubbard Woods, returned early this week from Easthampton, L. I., where they spent the summer.

Lawrence Hayes, Jr., 869 Linden avenue, returned last Saturday from Saskatchewan, Canada, where he has been spending the summer with relatives. He entered Northwestern University this week.

Judge and Mrs. C. T. Northrop of 1144 North avenue, will return next week from Jamestown, N. D., where they have been visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Starr are spending the month of September at Estes Park, Colorado.

Mrs. Lawrence J. Hayes, 869 Linden avenue, will return next week from Saskatchewan, Canada, where she has been spending the past two months.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Durandy and children of 1168 Asbury avenue, Hubbard Woods, have returned from Lakeside, Michigan, where they have been spending the summer.
